Former Secretary Gives to Jury Valuable Testimony For Millionaire TRIAL NEARS CLOSE

Jury Expected to Get Case Latter Part of Week in Opinion of Attorneys

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(UP)—Alexander Pantages probably will face a jury of six men and six women late today to tell his version of what happened in the little "conference room" at his theater where Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, charges she was assaulted by the multi-millionaire, showman.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(UP)—Two persons who worked for Alexander Pantages until he sold his theater string a few months ago for approximately $200,000 came to the showman's defense today at his trial on charges of assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer. The witnesses were Mrs. Rose Fowler, who as Pantages' private secretary knew many intimate details of the millionaire's daily life, and Mickey O'Neill who picked a number of the acts Pantages used on his vaudeville circuit.

Mrs. Fowler gave valuable testimony for Pantages when she declared that but 25 minutes elapsed on August 9 between the time the showman left his office for a barber shop until he returned after the interview with Miss Pringle. The attack allegedly occurred at the time of the interview.

"Mr. Pantages left the main office for the barber shop about 5 o'clock that afternoon," Mrs. Fowler said. "I next saw him at his private office on the second floor about 5:25."

Mrs. Fowler said she ran from the main office when she heard Miss Pringle scream but she did not go into the small "conference room" where Pantages took Miss Pringle. "I went to the office on the second floor when I saw Mr. Pantages go in," she said. "There were several people there, including Miss Pringle."

SEARCH FAILS TO LOCATE AIRPLANE

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Oct. 21.—(UP)—Search of the Pacific ocean in the vicinity of Pismo Beach today failed to reveal any trace of an airplane said to have plunged into the sea late Saturday night.

Sheriff J. C. Lowrey was informed by a score of persons that the plane was seen to fall into the ocean about 11:45 p. m.

The sheriff sent launches to hunt for wreckage but none was found. The witnesses, according to Sheriff Lowrey, were certain they saw the plane fall.

FIVE JAPANESE ARE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Entire Family Wiped Out at Fullerton When Santa Fe Train Hits Car

FIVE Fullerton residents were dead today as the result of one of the most tragic accidents in the history of Fullerton. All members of one Japanese family, were killed instantly Saturday evening at 4:15, when their car was struck by a Santa Fe passenger train at a crossing about three miles northwest of this city.

The dead are Denjuro Serizawa, 26, and his wife and three small children. The car which was an old Ford touring was completely demolished and had been carried approximately 100 feet before it was pushed off the tracks. The bodies were strewn beside the tracks and two of the bodies were carried approximately one-half mile before the train could be stopped.

Serizawa, who was a resident of the Bastanchury ranch and who had a small part of the ranch under lease, was journeying south on a dirt road which led on to the main highway to Fullerton, and apparently drove upon the tracks unaware that he was in front of an oncoming north-bound passenger train. Although the engineer of the train applied the air brakes, it was impossible to stop in time to avoid the crash.

All the victims were dead when passengers of the train arrived at the scene of the accident. The bodies were taken to the J. E. Seale funeral parlors where an inquest was to be held today at 2:30 p. m. by Coroner Charles D. Brown. Funeral arrangements had not been made at a late hour yesterday.

Serizawa was 26 years of age and his wife was 35. Their children killed in the accident were a boy, 5, a girl, 4, and a year-old baby.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—(UP)—Georges Clemenceau, the indomitable, fought off death today and rallied from a heart attack that almost ended his great career.

The aged tiger, who was the bulwark of France against her enemies during the war, stubbornly refused to submit to his greatest enemy, when all during the night he lay gasping for breath and was kept alive by injections of camphor and oxygen.

"It's not for this time," he whispered to Dr. Charles Lauby, the eminent heart specialist, as he rallied after five administrations of oxygen.

Then, his marvelous spirit and sturdy physique overcoming the handicap of his 88 years and his weakened heart, Clemenceau was able to be moved to a chair, the sitting position giving him relief from the choking, smothering sensation of his ailment. The heart condition is complicated by a slight pulmonary congestion.

In all, 11 oxygen treatments had been given from the time of Clemenceau's seizure last night until today. Dr. Lauby, leaving his patient temporarily, said Clemenceau was holding up well. He warned, however, that the patient must be watched closely, as another attack might occur at any time.

The Clemenceau household, at 5 Rue Franklin, after the anxiety of the night, was more optimistic and held hope that the tiger would recover. When the doctors left this morning, the former premier was in his favorite lounge chair, scowling.

SHULER BACKS RECALL MOVE AGAINST HARDY

Petitions Being Circulated in Los Angeles to Remove Jurist

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(UP)—A movement to hold a recall election to remove Superior Judge Carlos Hardy from the bench was underway today with petitions being circulated in various sections of Los Angeles.

The recall move is sponsored by the Developers' association, a civic organization, and has the backing of the Rev. R. P. "Bob" Shuler and the Rev. Gustav Bruehl, two ministers who have been involved in a controversy with the jurist.

The petitions allege that Judge Hardy "has brought discredit and contempt upon the court by conduct unbecoming one holding such a high office" for three reasons.

It is charged that Hardy accepted money for private use from those under suspicion of crime; that he used his influence to defeat the ends of justice, and that he has avoided responsibility by calling for assistance of other judges in passing upon matters that should require but one judge.

Recently Judge Hardy and two other judges found Shuler and Bruehl in contempt of court for remarks made during the trial in which Mr. Lois Pantages was found guilty of manslaughter. The ministers were assessed small fines.

Judge Hardy stepped into the limelight when the California senate tried him on a charge of accepting a check from Almerie Semple McPherson, the evangelist, after her famous "kidnapping" adventure. Hardy was acquitted at the trial and it was testified the check was a "love offering" given the jurist for his valuable aid to Angelus Temple.

Jury Returns Verdict After Out One Hour

Found Guilty of Killing of Chief of Police During Strike Rioting

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 21.—(UP)—A superior court jury here today found seven union organizers, charged with the second degree murder of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia in a strike riot, guilty.

The jury, submitting its verdict to the court through Foreman John L. Todd, found Fred Erwin Beal, George Carter, William McGinnis, the Louis McLaughlin, Clarence Miller, K. V. Kennerly and Joseph Harrison guilty as charged.

With little show of emotion, the defendants accepted the verdict which may mean a sentence of 30 years in the penitentiary. Beal was slightly flushed when his name was called; Miller appeared to stifle a sob; Carter rather blankly watching a ticking telegraph instrument.

The jury returned while Foreman Todd asked for instructions on the assault charge, which Judge Barnhill read from his charge.

When asked their verdict on the remaining two charges—assault and conspiracy—the jury became ambiguous in its answers and Judge M. V. Barnhill ordered it back to return a specific verdict on those two counts.

Fred Edwin Beal, organizer of the National Textile Workers' union and his fellow defendants, had been on trial for three weeks. Bitterly contested evidence marked the proceedings and the verdict climaxed an outstanding chapter in radical labor's efforts to unionize the new industrial south.

Chief Aderholt, who led a group of officers to union headquarters at the Loray Mills in Gastonia June 7, was the foremost victim of the violence that marked strikes in textile mills of the state.

PRESIDENT IN DETROIT FOR SPEECH

Chief Executive Takes Part In Golden Anniversary Of Incandescent Light IS GREETED BY FORD

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 21.—(UP)—President Hoover arrived here shortly before 10 o'clock today to participate in ceremonies commemorating the 50th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's perfection of the electric light.

A heavy drizzle of rain which had threatened to mar Light's Golden Jubilee in honor of Edison had ceased when the President arrived but there was no indication of sunlight.

As President and Mrs. Hoover alighted from their special train at the Dearborn station they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, whose guests they will be for the day, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison.

President Hoover will dedicate tonight the Edison Institute of Technology here and which Henry Ford established to advance scientific research.

As part of the dedicatory ceremony he will witness re-enactment of the experiment through which Edison on October 21, 1879, perfected the filament light which hastened the way for today's universal use of electricity for lighting purposes.

The dedicatory exercises scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m., will be broadcast over a nation-wide radio chain. They will be held in the rehabilitated laboratory, moved here from Menlo Park, N. J., in which Edison conducted his early experiments.

President Hoover was accompanied to Dearborn by Mrs. Hoover and a party of 12 secretaries and aides and 40 newspaper reporters and photographers.

The party left the presidential special train at Dearborn to board an old fashioned Grand Trunk train, a replica of the train on which Edison sold newspapers as a boy more than 60 years ago.

From Dearborn the old train carried the party to the old Smith Creek station, entry port to the early American village of Greenfield, which Ford reconstructed as a part of the Technology institute.

After a hasty survey of the old landmarks with Edison, the president

OPPORTUNITY OF ENTERING
S. A. REGISTER'S $10,000
OFFER OPEN TO EVERYONE

Contestants are urged to enter at once in the Santa Ana Register $10,000 circulation prize contest in order to start at the beginning of the campaign which is just now bursting into activity.

The opportunity to make money and to earn one of the major awards is within the reach of anyone who will devote a little to this campaign. Liberal commissions are paid anyone who does any work at all.

Other contestants have found it easy to secure subscriptions and the joy of working is proving an incentive to those who are in the campaign. The fact that none can lose—that everyone who works will receive liberal cash awards—is proving a great incentive.

The proposition commends itself as a sound business deal in which the reward for earnest work is liberal in the extreme. All contestants are on an equal footing with all other entrants in this campaign. At no time will it cost an entrant a single penny.

SOLICIT NO MONEY

No money is collected in advance for the subscriptions. The subscriber Old (renewal) or New, simply agrees to take the Register for a specified time, three months to a year, and to pay the carrier each month for the paper.

Any person who has the time to spare can earn a goodly sum in this campaign even if one of the major awards is not earned. There are fifteen major awards ranging from $2000 to $100.

On all subscriptions, Old or New, ten per cent of the regular yearly subscription price of the paper is allowed to those not winning a major prize. For instance, a person turning in ten yearly subscription contracts would receive $7.00 cash. Here is your chance to earn real money for Christmas.

and she left after Miss Pringle shouted "There is the beast," referring to the theater man.

Some time today or tomorrow Alexander Pantages will be called upon to tell his version of what occurred the day Eunice Pringle claimed she was lured to a consultation room and attacked.

For three weeks the multi-millionaire theater man has heard others describe how the 17 year old dancer ran screaming from the room.

Pantages contends that the girl named him because he had refused to book her act and that the alleged plot between her and Nicholas Dunne, author of her act, was occasioned by the sale of his theater for more than $20,000,000. The case, which, through the standing of the 54 year old showman who started his climb to wealth in the Alaskan goldfields, has gained nation wide attention, probably will be given to the jury of six men and six women late this week.

RESIDENT HERE 16 YEARS IS PRONOUNCED TO BE A LEPER

Mrs. Garcia is being cared for at the hospital but will be sent to a leper colony as soon as possible. Inasmuch as the bacteriological diagnosis of the malady leaves no doubt as to its nature.

According to Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, whose attention was called to the disease by Dr. Harry Zaiser, director of the hospital, a report will be made today to the state department of health. Upon receipt from that department of the proper blanks, a report will be sent to the federal health authorities, and it is expected that soon after that steps will be taken which will lead to the transfer of the patient to Louisiana.

Mrs. Garcia has lived in a cottage in the Santa Ana canyon with her nephew, S. Laguna, and has no other relatives here, it is said. Although her trouble probably began about five years ago, she has not suffered with the disease, and even now does not seem to be afflicted by her condition. She was working up to the time she came to the hospital several days ago.

Her case recalls that of Mrs. Carlos Rivera, 50, who was brought to the county hospital about a year ago, suffering with leprosy. Clinical proof of her disease was established but bacteriological evidence did not appear in her case. She remained at the hospital for several weeks, her strength failing and her appetite vanishing. Eventually she died. After death bacteriological proof was obtained showing that she had suffered with leprosy beyond any doubt.

Recently a number of complete cures have been announced in the case of lepers and the disease is not regarded today with the apprehension which once accompanied its appearance. It is transmitted only after continual and close contact with one who is suffering from it.

106 Degrees In Shade Here Today

Indian summer—with a vengeance!

The combination of a desert wind and Old Sol's sizzling rays sent the recording thermometer located at the S. Hill and Son store on East Fourth street to a mark of 106 degrees at 11:45 o'clock today. This was within two degrees of the year's high mark of 108 registered August 31. The thermometer is shaded from the sun.

Employees of the Hill company store stated that the mark set this morning is undoubtedly an all-time high record for October. The red line of the recording thermometer started at 86 at 6:45 o'clock this morning, jumped to 82 at 8 o'clock, went up another eight degrees in the next hour, stood at 99 degrees at 10 o'clock, added two more by 11 o'clock and at 11:45 hit the high at 106. At noon it had dropped three degrees to 103.

"To death," said Doyle. Then he swallowed poison and threw a glass in Ellmore's face.

Police said they believed Doyle was disappointed in love with Mrs. Watson, also known as Cleo R. Crawford.

PARTY BURGLAR IS ACTIVE HERE AGAIN

Santa Ana's party burglar made his appearance again Saturday night, after several months of inactivity, when he reached into a window at 1308 South Flower street and stole a pocketbook owned by Stella Stowe, 322 East Camille street, while a party was in progress in the next room.
Approximately $6 in cash, two small checks, a watch, keys, eye glasses and papers were in the purse, which has not been recovered.

The screen on the window was unhooked from the outside, allowing the thief to reach into the room it was reported.
Mrs. G. Lawrence, 320 South Birch street, reported to police yesterday that a man entered her home Saturday and stole a pocketbook containing $8. Mrs. Lawrence and her small son were in the back yard at the time.

S. A. WILL PAY 20 PER CENT. OR $1,472,000

Orange county started its annual good government fund campaign today when County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb announced that between $3,000 and $5,000 tax bills had been placed in the mails. The quota of the drive this year has been set at $6,305,683.25 and this amount has been charged to Lamb's office for collection.

The total amount which the county expects to receive in taxes from all sources, including the levies on personal property and intangibles, is $7,090,684.90. The first payment will become delinquent on the first Monday in December.

For citizens of Santa Ana the total tax bill amounts to $1,472,000, approximately 20 per cent of the amount which will be collected by the county. Santa Ana city taxes are collected by the county. For the first time this year Santa Ana property owners will be taxed as participants in the Metropolitan Water district for the purpose of bringing Boulder canyon water to California. The amount of this tax for the entire city is $8400, according to County Auditor W. C. Jerome.

For city purposes residents of Santa Ana will pay $397,450.83; for street assessments, $274,229.98; for food cleaning, $187,234.40; for the Metropolitan Water district, $8400; for maintenance on cemetery district No. 1, $4800.
School taxes in the Santa Ana district will amount to $479,227.27. Santa Ana property owners will pay the sum of $304,500 to the county for county purposes.
Tax collector Lamb today advised property owners that if they do not receive their bills within three or four days the reason is that their addresses are not available to his office. All bills for which there are addresses have been mailed, Lamb said. Those not receiving bills for reasons on their property should communicate with the tax office. Lamb said. In doing so property owners should remember that a legal description of their property should be brought in when the matter is taken up with the tax office. Str et addresses are not sufficient on which to base the location of taxable property, Lamb said.
On the first tax payment the collector usually receives about 50 per cent of the total amount due through his office and it is expected that this condition will be repeated this year.
Santa Ana enjoys a tax rate probably as low as any city of its size in California. It was pointed out today. In some cities the actual rate figures may be lower but the fact that property here is assessed at only one-third of its actual value brings a real tax bill down to the lower level.
Santa Ana will pay only about $2900 for the collection of its taxes, a sum which is believed to be much lower than it would have to pay if it employed its own assessor, tax collector and other employees who would be necessary in a tax department.
The total rate in Santa Ana is $5.55 per $100 of assessed valuation. This is divided as follows: County rate, $1.45; city rate, $1.89; schools, $2.14; cemetery, $0.03; and Metropolitan Water district, $0.04.

ARMY TO HAVE NEW COACH NEXT SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Captain "Biff" Jones of West Point apparently will not have the chance to coach another Army team against the Navy, after all. Since the chances of a service football game this winter are remote, "Biff" will be bidding farewell to the team after the Stanford game. His four years at the Point will be up, and Major Ralph Sasse has been appointed head coach for the 1930 season, while "Biff" goes to Fort Sill, Okla.

SUGAR MAKES FOODS PLEASANT

Good Cooks Learn to Use Nature's Supreme Flavorer

No wonder sugar used to be considered a luxury of the rich. No wonder a noted scientist says that sugar is the greatest condimental food in the world.
Sugar's supreme importance to health is that it makes foods pleasant. No man, woman or youngster can live on one food alone. To eat a great variety of foods daily the year round is to promote health, and sugar adds flavor and delight to nearly every known food. As a noted scientist says, to try to eat most foods "straight" would result in a monotonous, unpalatable diet, and you simply can't get people to eat things they don't like.
Try a dash of sugar on your favorite cereal. Eat beautiful blackberries and other fresh fruits made delicious by a sprinkling of sugar. Profit by the experiments of four well-known women cooking experts in New York who recently rediscovered the old art of using a dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking in a small amount of water. Note how the vegetable colors, freshness and flavors improve. This little added sugar makes eating vegetables a joy. Remember the value of custards, milk shakes, ice cream and other meat desserts in helping your family to eat enough milk. Remember stewed fruits, candy and cookies for the end of the meal.
Sickness is no longer stylish. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute. (Adv.)

State President Attends Meet Of Kellogg Auxiliary

The auxiliary to the Ernest L. Kellogg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held an unusually interesting meeting Friday night in the K. of P. hall, greeting the department president, Mrs. Pearl De Coa, of Sacramento, who was making her official visit to the chapter.

In addition there were over 30 members of Messer, Berger and Bell posts and auxiliaries of Pasadena and Ralph Snyder post and auxiliary of Los Angeles present. One of the outstanding events was the presentation to the auxiliary of a handsome American flag from the members of Calumet auxiliary, U. S. W. V., of which Mrs. Howard Wassum is president.

In turn the Kellogg auxiliary presented to the Ernest L. Kellogg post a silk standard which had been made by the auxiliary president, Mrs. J. A. Randal. The banner was such a handsome one that one of the Pasadena organizations asked Mrs. Randal to copy it for that post.

EVANGELIST TELLS OF 'POWER OF GOD'

Evangelist William "Billy" Watson will preach tonight in the Independent Gospel church, Fairview and Sycamore streets, on the subject "Perfect Peace." All interested citizens are urged to attend the revival. His address last night was developed along the theme of "The Power of God."

Last night the evangelist pictured the power and willingness of God to set men free from sin and to save them. He explained that God manifests His power in every life that is willing to let Him have His way.

"Too many people are trusting in psychology and its power, but it never can save a man's soul, nor cleanse a man from sin," Watson stated.

Ministers of the church, the Rev. C. Franklin Brown and the Rev. Mrs. Verna B. Brown, announced that the revival will continue this week with special services each night. Evangelist Watson will give a series of messages on "The Victorious Life." Special musical numbers will be featured.

'CALL TO SERVICE' REV. HARLOW TOPIC

In the First United Brethren church the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor, spoke on the subject: "The Call of God to Service." He said: "This is a day of specialization. In the colleges and universities of this country, the young people are preparing for all kinds of service. They expect to fill some position in life where they can be happy and useful. God has a plan for every life. If we do not find God's plan for our lives we will be like a round peg in a square hole, whirling around to no purpose. "The Lord called Abraham, and said, 'Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show you; and I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing: And I will bless them that bless thee; and I will curse them that curse thee; and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.'" God does not call every man to be a minister of the gospel, but he does call every one to separate himself from sin and accept Jesus Christ as his personal savior.

"How's Zat?" Said SWANNY

"Zis way!" Said GEORGE—

(Excerpt of Chatter)

"I figure," said George, nonchalantly, "these new silk scarfs are riotously ravaging!"

"I don't like your technique!" mused Swanny, fondling new ties from France.

"Well!" responded Geo—"Without malice you've got to know the Bible to appreciate them!"

"How's zat?" queried Swanny, suddenly.

"Zis way," replied Geo, a grin. "They remind me of Joseph's coat of many colors."

"You win!" from Swanny. "That's odd!" from Geo.

All quiet on the Western front.

Young Fellas! Imagine the unrequiting intensity of the situation. —No argument! What sort of a party 'tis it?

THREE REGULAR CARRIERS TO BE ADDED NOV. 1

Under permission granted by the post office department in Washington, D. C., three substitute carriers of Santa Ana post office will be made regular carriers on November 1.

The three men who will be advanced are H. R. Coffelt, Virgil Marr and F. W. Kirchhofer. Hunter Leach, who was senior substitute and was due for advancement, concluded to continue his position as assistant county jailer and resigned from the postoffice force. The shifting of substitutes brings Marlin Gwynn to the senior position on the substitute carrier list and he has been assigned to special delivery work.

Postmaster T. E. Stephenson said that the changes November 1 will not result in any increase in the city delivery area. The substitutes already are carrying regular routes.

Among changes contemplated on November 1 is the assignment of another carrier, making two, to parcel post delivery. Business area carriers no longer will make parcel post delivery from hand-carts. That delivery will be from automobile trucks. The time that the four business carriers have used in parcel post delivery will be used in extending the business delivery area. The business area has three first class mail deliveries daily and residence sections, two.

MRS. NOLAN BACK FROM EUROPE TOUR

Mrs. Alice G. Nolan is visiting in the home of her cousins, Miss Elizabeth Ann and Miss Maude Morrison, of Minter street, Santa Ana, after returning from a 14-month journey throughout the important countries of Europe. She made the trip with another cousin, Miss Jane Sharp, who remained abroad because of her interest in the foreign arts.

While abroad, Mrs. Nolan visited in England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Germany and France.

Paris was the gayest city entered by the Santa Ana visitor and she found Germany much like eastern United States because of the forests. Berlin was considered by Mrs. Nolan as similar to an American city because of "But the most colorful country I visited was Italy," Mrs. Nolan exclaimed. "The country fairly bristles with soldiers. The king's guards, who are men six feet tall and 100 per cent perfect physically and morally, wear scarlet uniforms with white kid trimmings."

Mrs. Nolan was in Rome when Italy celebrated its Armistice day and she told of the great respect Italians have for Mussolini. The country has prospered considerably during his regime according to Americans living there and with whom the traveler visited.

Man's Dancing License Is Suspended

Justice Kenneth Morrison "pulled" a new one this morning when he fined Pate Baca, of Delhi, $30 on a drunk charge and "suspended" his dancing license for a year. The suspension of "dancing license" simply means that Baca is to stay away from the Delhi dance hall for 12 months or go to jail.

He was arrested in the dance hall.

DOGS TO BLAME FOR DEATH OF 'PARD' MALLET

Hunting dogs were responsible for the accident that resulted in the death of Arthur "Pard" Mallett, in Brentwood, Calif., last week, it became known here today. Mallett was a pioneer of Orange county.

Mallett was hunting rabbits about three miles from his home. Reaching the hunting grounds, Mallett got out of his car. His dogs, in jumping out of the machine, knocked a shotgun out of the auto, the shell in the weapon exploding and the charge taking effect in the knee of one of Mallett's legs.

The injured man attempted to stop the flow of blood from the wound, but grew too weak to accomplish his purpose. He lay by the side of his machine for an hour and a half before two young women passed and rushed him to the hospital in Brentwood. Mallett died while on the operating table for amputation of the leg.

Funeral services were held here Sunday, a song by James Nuckolls, in the Smith and Tutill chapel, and the ritualistic services of the Lodge of Eagles constituting the full burial service. Ed Larter, of Westminster, and George Peters, of Santa Ana, old time friends of the pioneer, were among the pallbearers. Other pallbearers were members of the Los Angeles lodge of Eagles.

BATTLESITE IS SCENE OF MEET OF HISTORIANS

The Orange County Historical society today had to its credit the honor of holding a business session at the monument marking the site where the battle of San Pasqual was fought on Dec. 6 and 7, 1846, between the forces of Gen. S. W. Kearney and the native Californians (Mexicans).

The battle of San Pasqual, fought in the little valley of that name located in the northern part of San Diego county, was one of the bloodiest fought on California soil, according to historical records. The number of men engaged was not large nor were the casualties numerous, as compared with battles of more recent years. It was pointed out by S. M. Davis, secretary of the county society. Its chief distinction lies in the fact that it was a battle fought upon California soil.

At the meeting of the society, held at the monument, Davis read some parts of the historical sketch of the battle, written by Prof. Owen C. Coy, of the University of Southern California.

T. E. Stephenson presented, orally, an interesting and interesting description of the battle and Dr. C. D. Ball gave some personal reminiscences of persons who had talked with some of the survivors of the battle. Dr. Ball said that contrary to general supposition, Kit Carson was not killed in this battle, but died a natural death in 1868.

Dr. J. M. Burlew, Judge H. G. Ames and Mrs. Martha J. Marks, all of Santa Ana, and Charles W. Meadows, of Orange, were admitted to membership in the society. The site of the monument consists of one acre of ground, accepted by act of the state legislature and approval by the governor on May 16, 1919, as a gift from William G. Henshaw and Ed Fletcher.

The monument is a large rounded boulder about eight feet high and six feet in diameter, upon which is placed a bronze tablet containing the following statement, together with the names of the persons who lost their lives in this battle:

"The state of California honors with this monument the American soldiers who under the leadership of Brig.-Gen. Stephen W. Kearney, Capt. Abraham P. Johnston, Capt. Benjamin D. Moore, Edward F. Boyle, U. S. N., and Kit Carson, the scout, gave their lives in the battles of San Pasqual between the Americans and Mexicans Dec. 6-10, 1846."

An appeal has been made for contributions to the first issue of the "Tavern Tattler," by Fred Humiston, editor. All short stories, descriptive compositions and poems are welcomed. It was announced, and when printed automatically will become contesting material for the Robert Brown prize, offered for the best contribution during the year.

Press club members will decide on final plans for their Halloween party to be held November 1 at a business meeting scheduled for 8:30 tomorrow night in the home of Miss Helen Hamilton, 695 West Walnut street.

Four saddle horses are needed by the Jaycee Armistice day float committee, which is headed by Thomas Hall Glenn. A short meeting of the float committee was held today, at which time further plans were made for the Dons' entry in the parade.

Members of the Santa Ana high school and college faculties who plan to attend the annual Orange county teachers' frolic, to be held at 6:30 tomorrow night in the Huntington Beach union high school building, are D. K. Hammond, Ray Adkinson, C. E. Blacow, Stuart Carrier, Lynn H. Crawford, W. M. Clayton, McKee Pisk, Thomas Hall Glenn, W. W. Goodwin, A. D. Henshel, U. Grant B. Meyer, Samuel J. Mus-

Avoid Ugly Pimples

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effective, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

AUTO CRASHES INTO HANGAR AND DAMAGES FOUR PLANES; DRIVEN AWAY ON OWN POWER

Four airplanes, in a hangar at the Eddie Martin airport at the end of South Main street, were damaged to the extent of approximately $6000 Saturday night, when an unknown motorist drove his machine through the building into the planes.

The driver escaped with his car after pulling it out of the hangar. Bloodstains found on part of the damaged building indicated that someone in the machine was injured in the crash.

Sheriff's officers today were mystified over the fact, that an automobile, regardless of its speed, could race the 100 yards from the road to the building and then plow through it with such force as to tear open the corrugated iron sides of the building. They believe that the machine may have been in the field and not on the road when it headed for the hangar.

Three of the planes were owned by Martin, himself, who now is in the east, flying the R. S. Fokker plane. He has not been notified as yet of the damage. His loss was approximately $5000, it was said. The fourth plane was owned by E. Brandenburg, of Santa Ana, and was in storage at the time. It was damaged to the extent of approximately $1000.

That the parties who crashed into the building were on a "party" was indicated by the discovery of a bucket filled with ice and water and three bottles of beer inside the building.

The nightwatchman at the place heard the crash, but thinking it was an automobile accident on the highway, did not make an investigation at the time. Parts of the car, found inside the hangar, led officers to believe that it was a sedan or coupe, they said.

All hospitals were checked on the theory that the person or persons injured may have sought medical treatment, but they were not found. Garages were being checked today in an effort to locate the damaged automobile.

RICHFIELD WINS 1929 A A A SPEEDWAY CHAMPIONSHIP

"I used Richfield in winning the Speedway Championship again this year. In my opinion, it is the finest gasoline made!"

Meyer
1928-29 A. A. A. Speedway Champion

WHAT greater tribute could any motor fuel receive than the sweeping endorsement of this daring driver, who has twice won the highest honor of motordom—the National A. A. A. Speedway Championship.

Here is the supreme test of any gasoline—the grueling, heart-breaking test of the speedway. Power, speed, perfect carburetion under all conditions—so desirable for everyday driving—are absolutely essential in the bitter competition of speedway racing.

The slightest faltering of the motor, failure to respond instantaneously to every emergency, inability to maintain terrific speed hour after hour, means loss of position, loss of prize money—sometimes loss of life itself.

Isn't it significant, then, that the world's greatest drivers—men like Lou Meyer, who have the choice of every gasoline that is made—use and recommend Richfield exclusively.

Richfield's qualities—proved in grueling competitive events—are the same qualities you need for your own car—instant acceleration, power, speed, and unfailing dependability.

LA HABRA DISTRICT ENJOYS PROSPERITY; MANY NEW RESIDENCES CONSTRUCTED

ORGANIZATIONS TAKE PART IN AIDING GROWTH

LA HABRA, Oct. 21.—La Habra's numerous organizations contribute in large measure to the growth of the community. All of the various clubs and societies are behind any move which will boost the city's welfare.

Among the organizations is the Masonic lodge with a membership of over 100. Claude A. Ridgeway is worshipful master of the local lodge, which is in a thriving condition at this time.

The Order of the Eastern Star, which was organized in the spring with 28 charter members, has a membership of 68 at present. The members worked under a dispensation until last week, when they received their charter at the state convention in San Diego. A social club known as the Wino-Dad club has been organized of O. E. S. members and regular social meetings are held.

Church Brotherhood
The Federated brotherhood, composed of members of all churches within the city, meets every three months for a dinner with a capable speaker as a main feature. There are over 100 members. The Methodist brotherhood has 50 members and the Baptist brotherhood has the same number. George L. Gordon is president, I. E. Welde is secretary and Charles Goodchild is treasurer.

Six churches serve the town. They are the Baptist, Methodist, Christian, Four Square, Christian Science and Nazarene. Their various church organizations include missionary societies, Queen Esther circle, a World Wide guild, which was organized last week, Dorcas society, Daughters of Benevolence, Ladies' Aid and others.

New Garden Section
The Woman's Improvement club, with a membership of 90 members, opened the year's work this month at the club home and organized a garden section. Mrs. E. Lippert is chairman and Mrs. E. E. McClure is secretary and treasurer.

It will be the aim of the garden committee to encourage the growth of flower gardens for each home and as a climax of their efforts this winter, they will hold a flower show in the spring. For some time a need has been felt for some sort of a show that would be distinctive for La Habra which would be attractive to residents of other communities also.

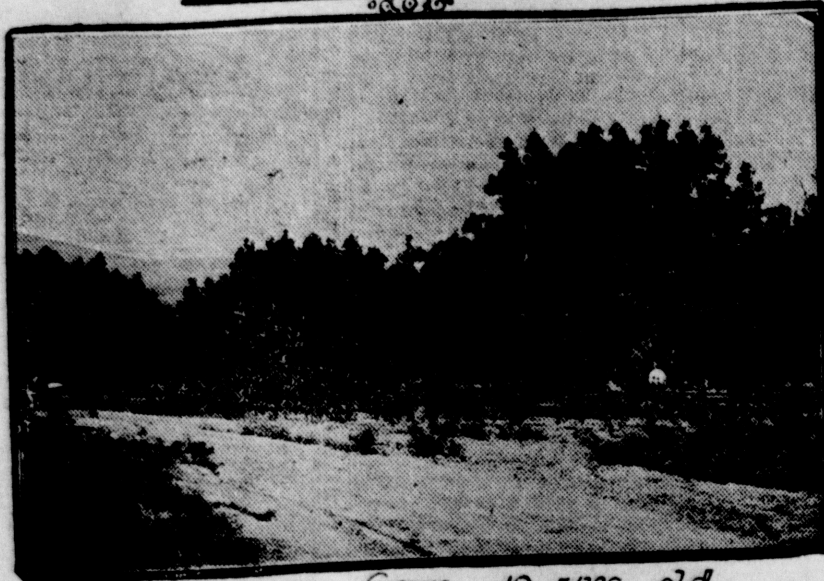

Some interesting programs are being planned under the leadership of Mrs. Anna Launer, president, and her committees.
The W. R. C. under the leadership of Mrs. Mable Jackson, with a membership of 51, has done considerable relief and patriotic work. The W. R. C. was organized a little over a year ago and meet twice a month for a social time and business.

Playground Success
The P. T. A., whose membership is expected to reach the 500 mark this year, put into operation for the first time a supervised playground for the children at the Washington and Lincoln schools, with two instructors for boys and girls. Three hundred children enrolled for the summer. The girls were taught sewing and folk dancing and the boys were taught manual training. At the close of the summer months an entertainment and contests were held and prizes were awarded winners. The project for the summer was considered highly successful by decreasing delinquency among the boys and girls.

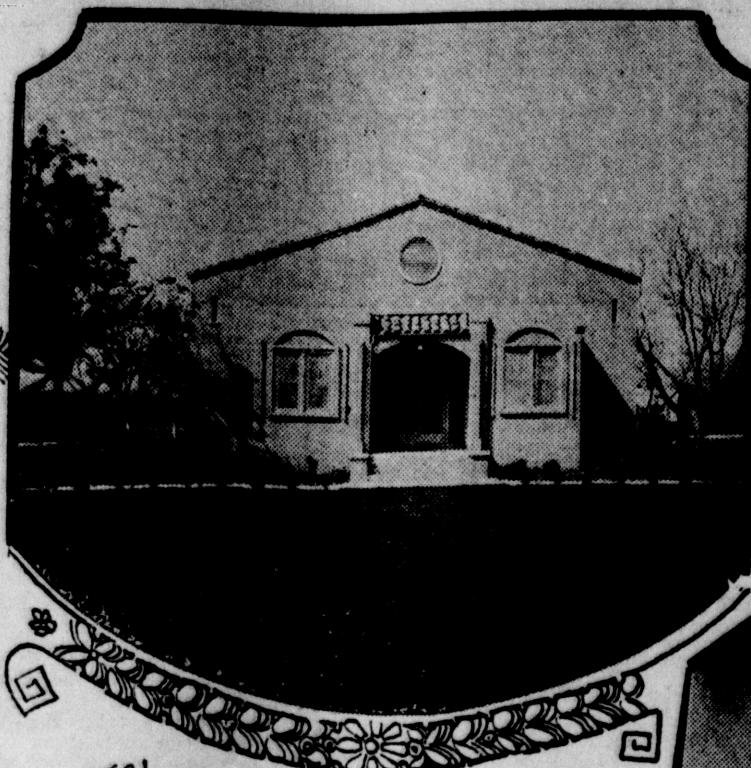

The P. T. A., under the leadership of Mrs. Lester Baldwin, who succeeded Mrs. E. E. McClure, mother of the playground association, expects to continue the work of the past summer and will work to have the playground put on a substantial financial basis so that the work may be carried on each year successfully. In order to do this the city, in conjunction with the school board, will be asked to set aside funds for its maintenance.

Legion Aids Scouts
One of the chief projects of the American Legion is sponsoring and maintaining the Boy Scout movement in La Habra. The boys have a well equipped home in a separate building from the school buildings at the Washington school. Meetings are held each Friday afternoon and are directed by Louis Zimmerman and John Torp. A La Habra float will be entered by the Legion in the Armistice day parade at Huntington Beach and an annual Halloween parade for the kiddies of the community will be held on Halloween on the main streets of La Habra. Prizes for costumes will be given by merchants. Refreshments will be served to all children taking part or entering floats in the parade by the Legion auxiliary. E. R. Berry is commander of the local post and E. M. Jackson is in charge of the parade activities.

COUNTY TO AID COMMUNITY IN BUILDING ROADS

LA HABRA, Oct. 21.—Three new highways from La Habra south are projected. Sponsors of the projects believe that they will be completed within the next 18 months.

With the exception of one piece of property near Buena Park, the right-of-way has been secured for the La Habra-Buena Park road and work is expected to begin soon on this road, which has been accepted by the county.

With the opening of South Cypress to Nicolas avenue in Fullerton through the Bastanchury ranch, La Habra will be easily accessible from four directions. This street, which Fullerton is said to favor, is expected to be promoted during the coming months.

The county has pledged its support and is ready at any time for the opening of South Walnut street from the present paving to Ocean avenue when a short right-of-way can be secured by the city.

Some improvements of dips in the pavement on Central avenue are expected to be made soon.

$73,362 SPENT FOR LA HABRA STREET PAVING

LA HABRA, Oct. 21.—The largest paving project in the history of the community was started during the past summer, completing a network of paved streets throughout the town on all main thoroughfares.

A total of $73,362.91 was spent in this paving campaign. Streets paved include East First, East Second, East Third, Bright street at a cost of $25,251.19, East Erma and other streets, $18,029.13; Mountain View and South Hiatt streets at a cost of $11,774.95; South College, $3,097.63; South Walnut, $1,895.62; oiling and grading, $8,314.39.

In addition to this amount, $5,609.01 was spent for sewers and a sanitary district by adding main line sewers to several sections outside the city not previously connected.

With the completion of sidewalks throughout the town and the correct numbering of the houses a village mail service has been established with mail delivered to each home by two carriers twice daily.

The next public improvement within the city is expected to be made in regard to shade trees for the park ways. So far little has been done to encourage the growth of trees in the parkways but Councilmen H. A. Randall, H. A. Robinson and Albert Thurnher have been appointed by the city to work in conjunction with the city engineer, John Sanks, to investigate the best possible trees for this purpose and recommend them to the city.

At the request of the residents of Mountain View avenue the council decided to allow only the Jacaranda tree to be planted on that street.

"TRY-ON" PURSES

The wise woman will "try on" her purses this year. For the numbers of different tones of color, the varied shapes and sizes makes it hard to choose. If Miss lady wears her outfit into the store and holds different purses up alongside of it, she will be much more apt to select the correct one.

some time is the merchants' division. William Abrams has been appointed chairman of this committee and organization work for this division is now underway.

Committees appointed recently are as follows: Roads, N. M. Launer; membership, Ben S. Roberts; public improvements, O. T. Stephens; publicity, A. W. McBride; agriculture, Charles Price; city affairs, A. V. Douglass; co-operation, J. A. Channing.

KIWANIS CLUB GETS OUT VOTE FOR ELECTIONS

LA HABRA, Oct. 21.—With a membership of 35, the local Kiwanis club walked away with honors at the international convention held this summer at Milwaukee for having a perfect attendance for over a year.

The club meets each Thursday noon in the Masonic temple for a luncheon. At the present time the club is setting aside funds for the purchase of a library site with a view of securing a public library for La Habra.

Having organized an efficient Boy Scout organization with a comfortable, well equipped home on the Washington school ground, the actual work of overseeing has been taken over by the American Legion and the Kiwanis club will devote its time to the purchasing of a library site.
The club under the leadership of the president, O. T. Stephens, has done much to get out the voters at the various elections of the year, having had a 100 per cent membership vote at the elections. At the last school election, the members furnished cars and stickers urging citizens to vote, with a resultant heavy vote.

Rollo Hilbert, pioneer druggist, has taken out a permit for a duplex to be built on his property at the corner of Lois and Francis streets, at a cost of $3800. Mrs. W. Froome has secured a permit for a duplex to be erected on her property at the corner of Hazel and Erma street at a cost of $4200.

TOMATOES SENT TO EASTERN MARKETS

LA HABRA, Oct. 21.—Winter tomatoes for the eastern markets were shipped from the local packing plant at the Pacific Electric depot last week.

It is estimated that 300 acres of tomatoes have been planted in this section. Acreage planted by Price and Bishop, local planters, who have the largest individual planting outside of the Bastanchury ranch, has been less this year than last, although it is hoped that a longer period of shipping can be maintained this year. They plan to ship 85 cars. Seventy-five cars are expected to leave the local plants. Several families have returned to La Habra for the packing season. Two hundred men and women are expected to be employed during the season.

Emery and Kavanaugh, Los Angeles shippers, will again handle the crops. Sam Stoutenberger, well known local man, has returned from Turlock and will have charge of the shipping. The shipments will continue until the frost season.

New Wildcat Oil Test For Sunset Beach District

SHELL COMPANY BUYS DERRICK ON BIXBY LAND

SUNSET BEACH, Oct. 21.—An oil derrick has been erected on the swamp lands north of Sunset Beach. It is a steel derrick and is being rigged with heavy drilling equipment. The venture is being undertaken by the Shell Oil company. The well is located on what is known as Hog Island, owned by Fred Bixby. At least two previous wells have been drilled in that vicinity, but there is still room for an oil structure to lay between the wells that were drilled and for the Shell's new well to find it.

It is reported in oil circles that the Shell lease, for which a fancy price was paid, would expire in 40 days and for this reason the company was forced to become active on the lease, although like all California companies, the Shell does not need any more oil at the present time.

Hog Island is not in reality an island at all. The surface there is geologically lower than surrounding formations, it is claimed. In geology Hog Island is what is known as a hidden dome, one that indicates by the presence of the lower formation on a level with the higher or later formations, that a hill once existed and was moved or disappeared, probably through erosion.

When after tide floods, or following long rainy periods, the lowlands of the Bixby ranch were partly submerged, the cattle and hogs in former days when stock ran wild on the unfenced place, would leave the surrounding lowlands and gather on Hog Island. Here the water never seemed to make the land as soft and boggy as elsewhere, and Hog Island was always the last to overflow, often remaining above water when all surrounding land was submerged.

The land that the animals found was a natural "high" is now proclaimed by the Shell geologists to be a geological or structural "high." Hog Island has long been regarded favorably by geologists and oil men as an oil prospect.

OIL MEN SEE CUT IN PRICE IN H. B. FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 21.—The cut in the price of crude oil announced by the Standard Oil company Sunday morning, does not affect this field, according to oil men, but they expect that the cut will be applied here, as they do not see how any discrimination can be practiced.

The cut as announced affects oils that are of a certain gravity. The gravity oil which is reduced in price is a higher gravity than is found in this field, for the most part. There are some wells here which produce oil of the gravity included in the cut, and oil men expect this sort of oil to take the reduced prices, regardless of the published statement that this field is not affected.

The new prices per barrel for crude oil at the well, effective Monday, are:

Santa Fe Springs, 21 to 28.9 gravity, inclusive, 40 cents; 29 to 33.9 gravity, inclusive, 60 cents.

Signal Hill, 19 to 24.9 gravity, inclusive, 40 cents; 25 to 32.9 gravity, inclusive, 60 cents.

Seal Beach, 19 to 24.9 gravity, inclusive, 40 cents; 25 to 32.9 gravity, inclusive, 60 cents.

The reduction in oil prices comes as a long delayed remedy for over production and eventually it will be a splendid thing for the oil situation. It is claimed here by oil men. In every oil lease made with the larger companies for the past three or four years, there is a clause which provides that production on leases may stop when the price of oil goes below 75 cents a barrel for the kind of oil or gravity of oil produced on the lease. This clause will enable all leases held by any company under a standard lease form to be inoperative without the company losing the lease or paying rental.

Thus enabled to shut down their leases, or at least all leases made within the past four or five years, the crude oil production will be cut enormously. It should require about 90 days at the most for the consumption to catch up with production if the cut is strictly adhered to and it is almost certain to be rigidly adhered to by the seven big companies, which are Standard, Shell, Richfield, Associated, Union, Texas, Continental, the latter including Marland and all its subsidiary companies. These "big seven" control the crude oil distribution in California.

The companies consider the oil production and consumption balanced when the storage supply includes three months' normal consumption, and production equals consumption.

The cut in the price of oil is regarded by conservative oil men as a blessing although it will doubtless work a severe hardship on many smaller companies and on royalty owners. It is said by oil men to be the only logical way out of the most distressing situation that has confronted the petroleum business in all branches for the past 15 or 20 years. Most oil men hold that from 90 days to six months will see the price of oil go back to the present prevailing prices, and the industry put back on a safe basis.

FULLERTON CITRUS PLANTS WINDING UP SEASON'S RUN

FULLERTON, Oct. 21.—With between 3000 and 3200 cars of valencias to be shipped from California, packing houses in northern Orange county are preparing for the close of the season. Several houses in Fullerton are expected to complete packing this week. Shipments from northern Orange county totaled approximately 310 cars during the past week of which 200 cars were sent by the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange.

The Edgington Fruit Company, which sells through the Mutual Orange distributors, shipped 15 cars during the week and expects to wind up the season this week with a last shipment for the season of 400 cars.

The American Fruit Growers, Inc., shipped only five cars last week and will complete the packing of the 1929 crop about Tuesday or Wednesday. This house expects total shipments to reach 360 cars, or approximately twice the amount sent out last year, according to Robert Strain, manager.

EXCHANGE MEMBERS SEE FILMS OCT. 23

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 21.—Motion pictures taken by two Balboas will be shown to members of the Newport Beach Exchange club Wednesday. It was announced today. Fifteen members of the San Bernardino Exchange club will attend the meeting.

The pictures will include a few taken here recently by H. L. Sherman, a member of the club who leaves soon on a five-month tour of the South seas, during which he will take many "movies," and some taken by "Duke" Gardner, of Balboa Island, on a trip he made around the world a few years ago. The San Bernardino delegation of Exchangees will present a gavel to the beach club for its good showing at Exchange day at the last San Bernardino orange show. The local club also won a silver cup on that occasion.

HARBOR DISTRICT TELEPHONES GAIN

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 21.—Telephones in use in the Newport harbor district, which includes the city of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa, showed a gain of more than 28 per cent in September over January this year, according to the latest issue of the Pacific Telephone Magazine.

Last January there were 650 phones in this exchange, while in September the number had jumped to 840.

Civic leaders pointed to this telephone increase as another indication of the growth of this section, another being the building permits which were greater for the first seven months of this year than for all 12 months of 1928, and so far are exceeded in Orange county by only two other cities, Santa Ana and Fullerton.

FLOWERED DECOLLETAGE

The very low back of a drawn pink satin evening gown has roses in five shades of pink extending from the point of its depth to neckline.

may follow the cut in oil prices is uncertain, although no drastic cut in the price of gasoline is expected by the big companies. However, the big companies cannot control the price of gasoline with any certainty, it is said. There are many strong independents which may get in the gasoline production business and start a gasoline war.

SHAWKEY PLANS REBUILDING OF YANKS IN 1930

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Bob Shawkey returns from a Canadian hunting trip this week to take up the management of the New York Yankees. It is a man's job. The Yankees, beaten out for the American league pennant this year after three successful seasons, appear on the downward path. The task of stepping in as successor to the late Miller Huggins in handling the former world's champions is by no means a sinecure.

Needing new and young blood, the local American league club will have no help from its rivals. Shawkey will have to pick wisely and well from the minors, although he will have Colonel Jacob Ruppert's ever-ready pocketbook at his disposal.

In a short time, among other problems, Shawkey will have to find a successor to Babe Ruth. The home run king cannot go on for long. The Babe is ready and anxious to co-operate with Bob in every way, he says, but willing legs soon will put the mightiest slugger of them all on the sidelines.

The Yankees must be rebuilt from top to bottom if they are to figure prominently in the pennant race. Bob Meusel has been sold to the Reds, and the left side of the infield must be reorganized. The pitching staff is a problem in itself.

Shawkey will confer with the Yankee officials and take up his duties at once.

the Dons for a few minutes, ringing up three first downs in quick succession. Yancey kicked out of bounds to the Padres' six-inch line and Crawford booted it right back to the 32-yard stripe. With nine short runs and a long pass, the Hub city boys worked the ball to the nine-yard line but incomplete passes proved their undoing.

George Warner, star end who hurt his leg a week ago in the Pasadena contest, played a fine game and ran the team to perfection. His "endmate," Adams, was going great guns while Hal Dunham, Solon Beall, Crawford Nalle and Nevil Hoy all put in lots of time in the fracas and played good ball at the wing posts. At tackles Captain Hylton was outstanding, although Frank Miles, Ernie Stump and Tim Wallace were a big help on defense. At guards, Bill Crawford and Joe Warner were the old dependables, with Crawford nailing runner after runner and getting off 50 and 55-yard punts. Al Kluthe, lanky center, smacked plenty of ball carriers and passed the ball to perfection. He played the whole game, as did Hylton.

In the backfield, Garlock, Manderscheid and Dutton were the principal ground gainers but several other boys surprised with their playing ability. Jack Rimek looks good for a regular berth this season. With his lightning fast start, he showed up the Compton ends Saturday.

Cook appears to have one of the most evenly balanced teams in the circuit this year even with numerous injuries that have slowed down his team somewhat. Melvin Beatty, shifty half, had to be content with helping the head linesman, as a bad leg kept him out of suit, and John Dugdale, Orville Schuchardt, Leonard Natland and Charles Teas, all quarterbacks, were out of the game for one reason or another.

SANTA ANA 'C' GRIDDERS LOSE TO LONG BEACH

Completely outplayed like their elder brothers later in the day, the Santa Ana high school Class C football team lost a one-sided grid tussle to the Long Beach "Lighties," 27 to 0, in its first league game, played as a curtain-raiser to the varsity clash at Long Beach Saturday afternoon.

Santa Ana couldn't pierce the stone wall put up by the Hares and had a hard time to stop the powerful thrusts through the line that the Bunnies used time and again. The first score came early in the game when Gauhan, outstanding quarter for Long Beach, got loose and ran half the length of the field to a touchdown. He also converted.

In the second quarter, the second touchdown was made by Brown. The Seasideers got the ball deep in Santa Ana territory and four plunges by Brown and Gauhan put the ball over. Gauhan kicked goal to make the score 14 to 0. The third score was the result of a 35-yard ramble around end by Gauhan after he caught a punt. The conversion failed.

Long Beach passed over the goal in the third quarter but the ball was called back and the Hares penalized 25 yards for clipping. It then took the Bunnies until the final minutes of the game to get their last tally. Cochems punted from his seven-yard line to Gauhan, who returned the ball 23 yards. He then threw a 25-yard pass to Hess over the goal and converted with another pass to the same end.

Meyers, Cochems and Harden starred for Santa Ana.

SAINTS PLAY 0-0 TIE AT LONG BEACH

their 20-yard line this time and Reboin, who was quite successfully bottled up for the most part, broke through left tackle and reeled off 16 yards. He got past everybody but Sweet, the Jackrabbits' safety. Reboin's pass to Paul made it a first down at midfield but another, also intended for Paul, was intercepted by Davies and run back to Santa Ana's 30-yard line before Wayne Vance, the tall Saint center, pulled him down from behind. The half closed an instant later.

Near Disaster Again
Santa Ana played much better defensively in the third quarter, and also looked improved on the offense for it was in this period that it threatened to score, but the fourth quarter was all Long Beach. Pangle intercepted a pass halfway through the session but Fredericks gave the ball back to the Jackrabbits on a fumble. The Saint line yielded one first down on running plays, then stiffened and Franklin kicked to Reboin who, forgetting his position, signalled for a fair catch on his goal-line. The ball squirted out of his hands and back of the goal where Reboin recovered it for a touchback although many at first believed it was safety, which would have meant two points for Long Beach.

The ball was put in play on the 20-yard line and the Saints immediately tumbled, the Jackrabbits recovering on the 26-yard mark. A penalty for clipping brought it 15 yards closer with just a minute to play. The Jackrabbits elected to try running plays, however, and time stopped them on the four-yard line when it was fourth down and one yard to go for a first down.

Vance is S. A. Star
Wayne Vance, center, was the only Santa Anan who played high class football throughout the contest. He was half the Saint defense. Ana Herren, end, turned in several fine defensive plays and so did Halfback Harold Pangle, but the other locals, including the usually brilliant Reboin, were far below par.

Tarry and Bovee, Long Beach's big tackles, were the real stars of the game although Olson's forward passing was as good as ever seen in high school football. An accurate thrower like Olson and long, lanky receivers such as Fuhrer and Elliott, are sure to make the Jackrabbits troublesome for any kind of prep opposition.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

MISSION WORK OF FAR EAST IS DESCRIBED

Dr. Lena Leonard Fisher, of the school of religion in the University of Southern California, spoke on mission work in the Far East in the First Methodist church last night. Her address was given in connection with the School of World Friendship, which is being conducted by the various churches of this city.

"The Christian woman in the Far East certainly is the greatest influence in the world today for brotherhood," Dr. Fisher asserted. "This movement for World Friendship is the strongest exponent of real brotherhood which exists in the world today."

"If you are a representative of the Occident in the Far East, you become aware that you are under constant suspicion. And why not? Those people have been exploited by different individuals. Africa and her rum traffic; China and her opium smuggling; American liquor being introduced to the eastern peoples whose very religion forbids its use. They are the victims of forced labor and are daily confronted with political exploitation and political aggression."

"Rabindranath Tagore wonders whether the United States has enough real religion to share with all the world."

In describing how the east has become industrialized, Dr. Fisher mentioned observations during her travels throughout the far countries.

"We visited Rachel's tomb down the road to Bethlehem, which is one of the authentic Scriptural sights in Palestine. As we stepped under the sacred door of the tomb our eyes met a glaring chewing gum advertisement."

"The east is changing over from the old to the new. In Hong Kong we glimpsed a young Chinese girl. Her hair not only was bobbed, but she had a marcel. She wore a tailored, American-cut skirt with a Chinese blouse. Her feet were bound, she smoked a cigarette and rode in a jinrikisha."

The speaker told of young Chinese men who climbed about the wooden gods of their fathers in a temple and her husband visited, slapping the faces of the hideous images in utter disdain. Dr. Fisher regretted the sight because, as she said, "vacant shrines now exist, and old gods have tumbled, but a poor religion is much better than no religion at all."

Quoting Ex-President Coolidge, Dr. Fisher declared that the white man has not contributed unto blessings to the people of the twilight lands of the world, "the great task for the west and the Christian movement today is to take the best that she has to the Far East."

"We need to Christianize American contacts in the Far East. One of the most wonderful things in this life is to be a good interpreter of Jesus Christ. Sometimes we get into the way, instead of having Him speak through us. Real gifts, real contributions, understanding must come not on the complacence of superiority, but on the sound basis of Christian teaching."

"Today Jesus Christ is intriguing the heart of the world as never before. We must take Him to the Far East, where people are lifting empty cups of life to be filled. There have been certain competitors of Jesus Christ, but today He acknowledges no rival."

In her lecture here last night, Dr. Fisher paid a brilliant tribute to Doris Welles, Santa Ana missionary in India.

'Fighting Against God' Is Topic At Church Of Christ

"Fighting Against God" was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon delivered by Evangelist J. W. Saunders, of the Southside Church of Christ. He said in part:

"Gamaliel in his advice to the persecuting council warned them of the possibility of fighting against God. It is possible for me to fight against God. The I am doing such a thing? I fight against God, when, like Pharaoh of old, I resist His known will. Whatever God has told me to do I must do. God's will concerning me is found in the Bible. To refuse to do it is to set myself against God and consequently to become His enemy."

"Jesus said, 'He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my word, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.'"

PASTOR TELLS NECESSITY OF CHURCH LOVE

The Rev. Edgar Rothbrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, gave the second of his sermons on the church Sunday morning. His theme was "Our Church—Its Doctrine." He said in part:

"The church is a divine institution instituted for the good of man. Jesus Christ is the head. He established it during the days of his flesh and the Holy Spirit has directed it through all the centuries. To know Him is to belong to the church and unless there is a vital spiritual experience, having one's name on the church roll of members does not secure eternal life. He became the Son of man that we might become the sons of God. Since he was God in the flesh, human life has been exalted. He lived after his death in the lives of Peter and John and the other disciples. He lives today on earth in the lives of millions of true followers. To know Him is life eternal."

"Creeds and denominations have real value only among those who have been born from above. Generally those who have a satisfactory religious experience love their own church and respect every other denomination because all these are making a definite contribution to the Kingdom of God in the hearts of men."

"People often thoughtlessly say 'I do not care anything about denominations.' Too often they really mean that religion does not motivate their inner life. A man without a business may get along without a bank. He may say 'I do not care about banks.' But he will never get very far in the commercial world until he establishes satisfactory relations with banks in general. Yet the bank and a satisfactory connection therewith is not an end in itself but the means to an end."

"A denomination bears a similar relation to the individual as he works out his salvation with confidence toward God and good will toward man. The Christian church established the first hospitals, Centuries of teaching from Christian pulpits laid the foundation for our modern life. The church wields a power in the world that is gradually transforming human life."

CONSCIENCE IS DESCRIBED BY REV. SCROCK

"Conscience, the faculty in man by which he distinguishes between right and wrong and which imperatively commands him to do the right, is about 4000 years old," said the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, in his sermon yesterday morning. He was speaking upon the subject, "A Conscience for Today."

He quoted the famous Egyptologist, Dr. James Breasted, as his authority for the age of conscience. Dr. Breasted has found inscriptions on the walls of tombs dating about 2000 B. C. which indicate the beginnings, the dawn of conscience in man.

"It is interesting to find this evidence of conscience 4000 years ago," said the Rev. Mr. Schrock. "But it is more interesting, and vastly more important, to find evidence of conscience today. A conscience for yesterday is much more comfortable than one for today. Charles Steidle once said that the working man wonders why the minister spends so much time discussing the social problems of the Israelites, the Jebusites, the Hivites, and the Hittites, and pays so little attention to those of the Pittsburgites, the Chicagoites, the Brooklynites, and the Bostonites."

"I suppose that there are two reasons why the social problems of the Israelites are given more attention than those of the Americans. One is that it has been considered religious, 'spiritual,' to discuss the problems of Israel and it is secular, unspiritual, to discuss the problems of America. Another reason is that it is much more comfortable. Nothing draws criticism upon a minister so quickly as the attempt to apply religion to present day social problems. A conscience for today is our greatest need. It is not that most people are wicked. They are not. They are very respectable. They are indifferent. They don't take the trouble to distinguish between right and wrong and therefore they do not feel the imperative obligation to perform the right."

"Simply a conscience for today is not enough. Conscience is a matter of training, of attitude, of spirit, of standards of value. Because of this two people might take opposite positions on a moral question—for the sake of conscience. One man violates the 18th Amendment as a matter of conscience. Another obeys it to the letter for conscience sake. One man goes to war and gladly gives his life because he feels the imperative command of conscience. Another man, equally conscientious, refuses to go to war and takes his sentence to a federal prison. No, a conscience for today is not enough. We need a certain kind of conscience."

"A Christian conscience for today is our need. We need a conscience that is created by a Christian attitude towards other people, and towards truth, and towards possessions. We need a conscience that is an expression of the Christian spirit and that judges right and wrong according to the Christian standard of values. And we need the Christian dynamic. That is, we need power to help us obey the imperative command to do the right which we have discovered. It is comparatively easy to distinguish right from wrong if we have a standard of judgment. It is often desperately hard to do the right that we have distinguished from the wrong."

HOME RELIGION IS STRESSED BY PASTOR OWINGS

"Religion in The Home" was the sermon subject as delivered yesterday by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, at the "Family Sunday" worship hour. He said in part:

"It is time for the home to awake to the fact that it cannot delegate to other agencies the responsibilities that properly belong to it. There is many a home that turns over its child to the school for his education, to the community playground for his play, to the church for his religion, and considers itself then free in these regards. But in all these responsibilities the home must be a partner, the home must share the burden, the home must co-operate. The school or the church is not a substitute in its field for the home, but rather a supplementary agency."

"Parents in the home may well consider whether they have a right to bring children into the world without giving to them in the home all the religious advantages possible. Every child born has a right to character and religion is a chief force in character building. I have seen many people handicapped in the struggle for noble and sturdy moral life because deprived of all religious encouragement in the home. The church in its attempt to bring religion to childhood, youth, or adult life has an almost insuperable task unless it receives whole-hearted support in the home."

"There are at least four essentials in family religion that is to be wholesome and effective. First, there should be some form of worship engaged in periodically by all members of the family group. Second, the characteristic attitudes of the family members toward religious and the things of religion must be wholesome and favorable and not cynical or full of levity."

Third, the church and religious institutions must be supported and upheld by the family.

Fourth, religion and noble conduct are to be inseparable allies in all the family conversation, teaching, and practice. Religion is to be recognized as the force that made for a good living."

DON'T LOOK BACK, IS RECTOR'S PLEA

The Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the Church of the Messiah, selected as his text yesterday, "No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back is fit for the Kingdom of God." His topic was "The Ploughman."

"Jesus," said the divine, "had a definite purpose in his mind when he chose the birds, the soil, the mustard seed, the plough to illustrate."

RELIGIOUS CO-OPERATION IN SANTA ANA LAUDED BY WIFE OF PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER

Working together has been the life romance of Mrs. O. Scott McFarland and her husband, who is minister in the First Presbyterian church at Santa Ana. She met him in the Wesleyan Methodist seminary, in Ohio, where she majored in language and he excelled in mathematics.

It was in the seminary that their co-operative program began in a Virgil class. Working together as classmates then, the two prominent Santa Anans now are working together for the advancement of church activities.

In a brief interview in their spacious manse, Mrs. McFarland declared that the secret of successful undertakings in woman's church societies is to be found hidden in Christian endeavor and co-operative spirit.

The First Presbyterian church here boasts two particularly active women's organizations, one known as the Estella Daniel South American Missionary group, composed of business women, and the other as the Grace Rowley chapter. The latter is for the development of church leaders and has as its aim the encouragement of spiritual character. Mrs. F. E. Coulter, past president of Eboli, is patroness. General All societies and young people's groups comprise other worthwhile church organizations which are progressing rapidly due to the interest manifested in Christian labors in this community, according to Mrs. McFarland. She expressed faith in the future outlook for church activities here.

Mrs. McFarland is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Willits, who came to Santa Ana over a year ago. Her father is a retired Methodist minister. She also is the sister of Mrs. Harry W. Worley, who is the mother of a little Methodist missionary family in Foochow, China.

Because of her Christian background, Mrs. McFarland always has been exceedingly interested in church work. Being the wife of a minister is, in her opinion, a joy and holds daily new and amusing incidents that intensify her pleasure in the duties. She voiced the opinion that people the world over now are more considerate of ministers' wives than they ever have been and seem to realize they have homely tasks to perform, too. In this respect Mrs. McFarland again commends the spirit of co-operation which is prevalent in Santa Ana.

The Rev. and Mrs. McFarland have served in their ministry here for three years. They moved to Santa Ana immediately after giving up the pastorate in Hanstead, Pa.

Christian Science

"Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure." This counsel of Paul to the Philippians was the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Doctrine of Atonement" Sunday in all Church of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Lesson-Sermon consisted of Scriptural citations and correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

One of the Bible texts cited these words of Paul to Timothy: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing."

A correlative selection from Science and Health presented the following statements of Mrs. Eddy: "If Truth is overcoming error in your daily walk and conversation, you can finally say, 'I have fought a good fight . . . I have kept the faith,' because you are a better man. This is having our part in the at-one-ment with Truth and Love."

NEED OF FAITH IS TOLD BY HARDING

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, chose as his subject for the morning service, "Was It Faith or Foolishness?" using as a text, Mark 11:22, "Have Faith in God."

"What we term 'Remarkable Answers to Prayer,' said the pastor, 'might be called 'Remarkable Results of Faith.' Faith is not feeling, not sight, but trust or persuasion. James said show me your faith without works and I will show you my faith by my works. Faith works."

"Faith must operate in every department of our lives, you may look with envy on some prosperous promoter, you may have had the

PUT CHURCH IN 'BLUE RIBBON' CLASS IS PLEA

"Up to date we have allowed fairs and expositions and common shows to have a monopoly on the blue ribbon awards. Cattle, grain, vegetables, flowers, machinery and radios have been designated thus as though they were the only first-class things extant," declared Dr. George A. Warner, pastor of the First Methodist church in his sermon yesterday morning.

"Why not push the church up to this distinction?" he continued. "It has grades and variety sufficient to fit it into any sort of high or low tabulation."

"We will not try to define the church. Definition is just wall-building around the objects of thought so that they may be confined in sufficiently narrow limits for our intellectual caliber. But the church which you now hold in your mind, if it is to be without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, must have three outstanding characteristics."

"First, the Blue Ribbon church thinks under the guidance of holy motives."

Motive Sets Measure

"The motivation of any institution almost entirely sets its measure. The best depends upon the ranges of the ideal and, strange as it may seem when looked at individually, while all men desire the best, one man's best may be another man's worst. The artist loves beauty; the scholar, knowledge. The money-getter is consumed in his desire for gold; the musician, in song. The best for Julius Caesar was a throne, but for Jesus Christ, the best is a cross."

"Modern industry, with its vast credit systems, started the day that man found that he could trust his fellowman. Not capital, not natural resources; not intelligence, nor vastness of labor supply, but integrity is the foundation of all our business partnerships. And integrity largely is a product of religion. Capital has usurped too large an importance in our thought,

Pictured above is one of a fleet of trucks in service for the Irvine Citrus Association of Tustin, Calif. This business enterprise is highly successful under the capable management of Mr. J. H. Bray of Tustin, it being one of the most capably managed associations in the state. The packing house is located on the famous San Joaquin ranch. Choice fruits are packed and shipped to points east for marketing. The number of carloads shipped this year totals 250. This progressive firm has been a patron of the Herbert L. Miller, Inc., for the past 7 years, thereby using Diamond tires exclusively on all trucks. Service on these tires has been uniformly satisfactory and according to the officials they are more than pleased with the old reliable—namely The Diamond. The Francis association, located on the San Joaquin Ranch, is under the same management as the Irvine. Most of the growers in this association use Diamonds on their trucks.

PLAVAN-ROBBINS WEDDING IS AMONG LOVELIEST OF AUTUMN

One of the season's loveliest weddings, that of Miss Edith Plavan, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Plavan of this city, and Walter Robbins of Detroit, Mich., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robbins of Portland, Ore., took place Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church of this city with the pastor, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, officiating.

Gorgeously colored dahlias were arranged against a background of feathery bamboo and fern and casting a soft glow over the entire scene were the lighted candles arranged in graceful candelabra at the altar. The church had been decorated for the event by Miss Frances Egge and Miss Helen Battey.

Offered as a beautiful prelude to the ceremony were two solos, "O Promise Me," by Robert Brown, and "All For You," by Cecil Frown, with Miss Ruth Armstrong playing the accompaniments at the organ. Miss Armstrong also played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered the church.

Bride Is Charming
The bride was gowned in cream satin which fell in graceful folds and the misty veil which was the "something borrowed" of her costume was worn recently by Mrs. Clinton Woodruff who was formerly a teacher at Julia Lathrop junior high school where Miss Plavan was physical education instructor two years. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, lilies of the valley and roses and her costume was completed by a pearl necklace with bracelet to match which had been the gift of the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Frances Battey, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Woodruff and Miss Lota Blythe, all of whom were formerly sisters of the bride, were gowned in transparent velvet in cream and they wore dainty necklaces and bracelets which had been presented by the bride. Miss Battey's flowers were lovely golden tulle roses and the bridesmaids carried roses in deep coral tones.

The adorable little flower girls, the Misses Flo and Marilyn Plavan, sisters of the bride, carried baskets of roses and gardenias, which were scattered in the path of the bride as she came down the aisle.

School Friend Best Man
Millard Scott who was a school friend of Mr. Robbins at Oregon State college, served as best man and the ushers who were all members of the groom's fraternity, included Leland Plavan, Samuel Thompson, Allen Crissell and Kenneth Bathgate.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the lounge at the Ebells clubhouse which had been decorated with a profusion of autumn flowers for the occasion.

As guests arrived, they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Plavan, Mr. and Mrs. U. H. Plavan, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins and his bride, Mrs. F. D. Plavan who is a beauty and a social leader in the city, and Mrs. U. H. Plavan who was gowned in orchid with accessories in silver. Both wore pretty corsages of violets and gardenias which had been presented them by the groom.

As dainty refreshments consisting of bride's cake, ices, coffee and nuts were served by a bevy of young women, all intimate friends of the bride, Edward Burns, presented a group of 'tello selections with Miss Armstrong at the piano.

Assist in Serving
Those assisting in serving were Mrs. George Andrews of Whittier, Miss Mildred Mead, Miss Mignonne Swales, Miss Frances Egge, Miss Helen Randall, Miss Grace Robertson, Miss Mary Safley, Miss Ruth Langley, Miss Dolly Boyle, Miss Mary Eudaly and Mrs. Jack Fisher.

Except for the gardenias which she wore with her smart tweed ensemble, the bride's bouquet was presented to her mother.

Following a honeymoon in the northern part of the state, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will return to Santa Ana for a brief visit before leaving for their future home in Detroit where Mr. Robbins is district manager for the Carboly company.

The charming bride graduated from the Santa Ana high school and junior college and later from the Oregon State college where she met Mr. Robbins and their romance began. For the past year she has been teaching at McKinley grammar school. She is a member of the Chi Omega sorority and her husband is affiliated with Kappa Sigma and a national military fraternity.

DINNER PARTY FOLLOWS WEDDING REHEARSAL
Following the rehearsal of the Plavan-Robbins wedding which took place Friday at the First Presbyterian church, members of the bridal party were guests of Mr. and Mrs. U. H. Plavan at a delightfully appointed dinner at St. Ann's Inn.

The long dinner table had been arranged in artistic fashion by Mrs. Plavan who centered it with a pretty arch of flowers from which hung a graceful wedding bell. Beneath the bell were placed a miniature bride and groom. Striking a unique note was the arrangement of chrysanthemums in bright autumn tones in the feathery fern which ran the entire length of the table. Tall candelids

A fine Diamond—the aristocrat of stones

There may be some things on this earth more rare, more costly than a diamond—but there's nothing, certainly, more brilliantly beautiful. No wonder there's pride in its possession . . . prestige in its ownership. And whether set in a ring, a brooch or a handsome Gruen Guild Watch, the stones we show are perfect. See them!

WOMAN'S PAGE

Chubs Fashions by Louise Stephenson Weddings Household

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Today I want to tell you about a quaint old cook book which I have just had the pleasure of examining.

It was printed in London in 1809 and is anonymously authored by one who signs herself "A Lady." In her "Miscellaneous Observations," she gives us a clear cut picture of the homemaker of that day. She tells how the prudent woman budgeted her household expenses . . . that it was cheaper to buy for cash than to "charge it" . . . that all that glitter was not gold and it was best to deal with established shops than with cheap new ones which did not live up to their promises . . . that girls were just as light-hearted and irresponsible then, as now.

Amusingly she comments on the women of her day:

"There was a time when ladies knew nothing beyond their own family concerns, but in the present day there are many who know nothing about them. To rear healthy progeny, to preside over the family and regulate the income allotted to its maintenance; to make home the sweet refuge of a husband fatigued by intercourse with a jarring world; to be his enlightened companion and the chosen friend of his heart; these are woman's duties." And delightful ones they are if happy she be married to a man whose soul can duly estimate her worth, and who will bring his share to the common stock of felicity. Of such a woman one may truly say, "Happy the man who can call her wife. Blessed the children who call her mother."

With a few minor changes, the woman-pattern is the same today as in 1809, when "A Lady" wrote about the gentle art of cooking.

Beef Kidney, Croole

- 1 beef kidney
- 2 slices bacon
- 2 tablespoons chopped kidney
- 1 bell pepper, minced
- 1 large Bermuda onion
- 2 cups stewed tomato
- 1-8 teaspoon curry powder
- Cayenne, salt and pepper to taste
- 4 tablespoons flour

Many people have an esthetic distaste to kidney because it is one of the organs of elimination, but properly prepared there can be nothing objectionable. Moreover, kidney is the source of B vitamin, that protector of the nervous system, as well as an inexpensive, nutritious protein food.

In preparing kidney take a sharp knife and cut the kidney in half. You will notice a sort of depression filled with stringy white tissue, cut away every speck of this white part and soak the prepared kidney in salt water for half an hour. Having done this part we will now go ahead with the rest of the recipe.

Into a kettle put the diced bacon and chopped suet fat to heat to heat and fry out. Cut the kidney into thin slices, the short way. Put in with the hot fat and let fry while you prepare the onion and green pepper.

It is best to run these two through the coarse knife of the food chopper, add them to the frying meat and cook all together until nicely browned. Add the tomatoes and seasonings, cover closely and simmer for 45 minutes. Mix the flour with water and add enough to make the gravy thick.

Line a platter with buttered toast strips, pour the hot, savory stew over and serve at once. A clove of garlic may be added if you like the flavor.

The stew will serve 4 people. The calorie total is 1635 or about 400 per person. With it might be served baked potatoes, buttered cabbage or spinach, a simple salad, and a fruit and jello dessert.

Exercises that correct constipation, is the subject of the current leaflet. Do YOU suffer from the stipitation? Do you want to cure yourself? Would you spend the time and money to stamp an address an envelope and enclose it with your request for a copy of this leaflet?

The WOMAN'S DAY

A fascinating chapter in the history of women's rights is recounted in Anna Louise Strong's new book, "Red Star in Samarkand."

In that ancient city in the heart of Asia, made glamorous by Tamerlane, Alexander and Genghis Khan, now a province of the Russian Soviet government, a cruel and bloody battle has been and is being fought between law and custom, between the old and the new. She writes: "The central government supports the women; its laws prohibit child marriage, marriage by purchase, and polygamy; its propagandists encourage unveiling. Yet hardly a month passes without the news that in some distant village a woman has been murdered, by religious fanatics or by the men of her own household, because of her struggle for freedom."

WOMAN'S TRIUMPH

Death and cruel torture have been the fate of many women who have ventured to go forward, and only slowly and with great struggle are the old views being overturned. But in spite of tragedies, Miss Strong points out most amazing and spectacular victories.

In Borkara, high shrine of the Moslem fanatics, the streets and public assemblies are full of unveiled women. Women now take part in voting; they organize cooperative societies, they manage their own workshops; they even sit in court as people's co-judges. Year by year, and very confident.

In 1924 there were only ten unveiled women, guarded against murder, and no women in factories, or no women's clubs, in the entire Uzbek nation, of which Samarkand is the center. Today there are nearly a hundred Mother and Baby Consultations in Central Asia, 34 women's club buildings with paid workers, and 26 "red corners" with one paid worker.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Oct. 21.—Herbert Day, who sustained a severe burn on his leg while playing about a bonfire is still confined to his home but the burn is healing satisfactorily.

Mrs. Winifred Morris and Mrs. W. A. Mulholland were guests at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Thomas Berry, of Huntington Beach, at her home Saturday.

Joe Akatana, local Japanese school pupil regained consciousness Thursday and recognized his father that day for the first time since an operation performed the first of the week.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westminster chamber of commerce will be held Tuesday evening at the Westminster library.

Mrs. Ethel Buck was a Los Angeles visitor Friday. About 200 persons, a capacity number for the Westminster Presbyterian church, gathered Friday evening in response to the invitation to join in a community get-together and Halloween party, which was given under the auspices of the Happy Workers' society.

Men wore their overalls and women their aprons and the crowd joined heartily in the apple bobbing and other appropriate Halloween contests. The "Queen of the Halloween" shook hands with the entire crowd and an electric shaver went with each hand shake. A witch occupied the platform.

"The Black Cat Comedy" was put on by a group of girls dressed as cats, who sang "Three Blind Mice," while community singing of old songs was enjoyed by the entire company.

Mrs. Reuben Edwards was chairman of the committee responsible for the interesting program while Mrs. J. P. Peterson and her committee served refreshments.

The Westminster "500" club was entertained at an afternoon of cards on the regular club meeting date in the home of Mrs. Nell Parr in Smeltzer, Mrs. Parr being assisted by Mrs. LaTouche, who took the place of the co-hostess, Mrs. Nell Morgan, who could not be present. Three tables of cards were played, Mrs. John Farnsworth of Bolina, scoring high while Mrs. Frank Van Uden took second prize. Refreshments were reminiscent of the Halloween season, pumpkin pie and coffee being served.

Attending the card party were Mrs. George Whitcomb, of Norwalk; Mrs. Evelyn Wardlow, of Cypress; Mrs. Gus Ward and Mrs. John Farnsworth, of Bolina; Mrs. Luther, of Garden Grove; Mrs. Alice Hare, Mrs. Zada Moldal, Mrs. LaTouche, Mrs. Winifred Morris, Mrs. VanUden, Mrs. Fred Basse, Mrs. May Mansperger and Mrs. Alvaretta Campbell, members of the club from Midway City, joined the party for a short time and Miss Ella Murdy was a guest of the afternoon.

Mrs. Gus Ward will entertain the club at its next meeting and will be assisted in her hostess duties by Mrs. John Farnsworth.

A NEW WORLD

"In Kokand," she writes, "our women's clubhouse is a remodeled building, has a rest room, an auditorium, advice and nursing care. Silk flature mills are opening and women getting jobs in them. A new world is beginning."

"Over twenty thousand women today hold some elected public position . . . there are 193 women's exchanges where they sell the products of their handiwork. By the former custom, the husband took his wife's work and sold it in the market, using the money as he chose."

"In silk culture, for instance, the women do all the labor, but in the past men have bought the eggs and the mulberry leaves and sold the cocoons. This year we have succeeded in paying the money direct into the hands of the woman grown in about one-tenth of the cases."

"Next year it is the government policy to conclude all such contacts direct with the woman, giving her the eggs and the credit. One purpose in this, in which all government agencies are required to aid us, is to raise the woman's status as a human being in the household — she was formerly merely a piece of livestock."

"Our chief task now is to fight the ancient custom of bride purchase and child marriage, to educate women and to bring them out of the homes into factories where they may have training for citizenship."

The old land of the Arabian Nights is changing—Fatima is casting aside her veil, putting on western clothes—and going to work. What a picture!

'DANCE OF LIFE' IS BROADWAY FEATURE

"The Dance of Life," Paramount's great picture of backstage life, reviewed by critics as probably the best of the all-talking, all-singing and dancing pictures yet brought to the screen, opened in the Fox-Broadway theater today for three days.

Nancy Carroll has the leading feminine role and Hal Skelly, who played the original role on the stage, is seen as "Skid" Johnson, the irresponsible hooper, easily influenced, who makes good because Nancy, his wife, sticks by him through the roughest of weather.

The story is from "Burlesque," which made a sensational stage hit in New York in 1927 and 1928. The film version has one of the largest production sequences yet brought to the screen, the "Follies" sequence, with all its poise and beauty. This part of the picture is shown in color.

Six original songs are introduced in the picture.

The story concerns a young dancer who is fired from a third rate burlesque show because he loves liquor and horses more than his work. He meets the girl, just as she has failed to land a job, and the two team up. She is the cause of him taking an interest in his work and he teaches her to dance. He makes good and is sent to New York. She remains with the smaller show. Apart, he falls for another girl and she decides to divorce him for another man. Then comes the climax and a happy ending.

Aside from the feature, a Fox movietone newscast is on the program.

PARTY FROCK

A charming little girl's party frock is made of white Swiss with blue dots and three scalloped tiers edged in blue. There is a sweet yoke, outlined in blue scallops, and tiny cap sleeves of the same.

'THE GREAT GABBO' IN FOX-WEST COAST

Eric Von Stroheim returns to the films in "The Great Gabbo," a typical Von Stroheim picture, which opened in the Fox-West Coast theater today for three days.

Directed by James Cruze, who made "The Covered Wagon," "Beggar on Horseback" and other great films of the past, "The Great Gabbo" is another picture, this time all-talking, of which Cruze can well be proud.

Weird, fascinating, it is a picture that will keep an audience glued to its seats. Von Stroheim is the Great Gabbo.

A cruel, relentless type, the Great Gabbo is selfish and arrogant. In the opening scenes he abuses Mary, a stage girl, played by Betty Compson (Mrs. James Cruze). She tries to warn Gabbo that all he will get in this life is what he puts into it, but in his arrogant way he thrusts the advice aside.

Aside from the feature, a Pathe talking comedy, "Dancing Around," and a Fox Movietone newscast are on the bill.

NEW OWNERS FOR STORE IN OLIVE

OLIVE, Oct. 21.—Announcement was made today that T. A. Broderick and Tom Cole had purchased the Olive department store from J. Finny and J. Baptiste, of Los Angeles.

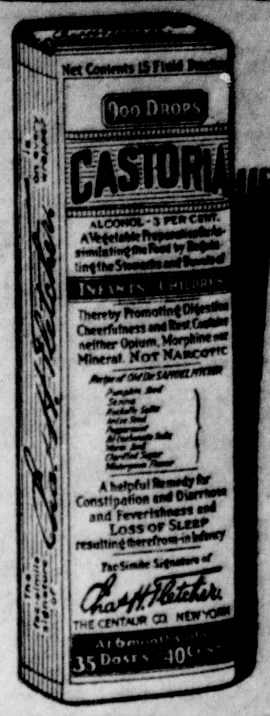

T. A. Broderick will continue in charge of the store, having made a host of friends as manager for the former owner, P. B. McCarty and Finny and Baptiste. Arthur Middlebrook will remain in charge of the meat market.

The store will continue under the old name. The drygoods department was discontinued about two weeks ago.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Are 'Wild Mammals' Out of Date

Sometimes I Think They Are BUT Sometimes I Think They Aren't
By VELVA G. DARLING

"Wild Mammals" of the Sophie Tucker I-don't-care variety are rapidly vanishing off the face of the earth. The red-hot mamma, crooning harshly under her breath, "Aggravatin' papa—don't you try to two-time me!" and shaking the rafters as she gives her version of the Tango, has died out like cotton stockings—I sometimes think. Members of the bald-headed row at a Follies first night used to get a 300-volt emotional shock and a thrill that couldn't be measured in volts or amperes when one of those "wild mammals" singing in a voice like a giant frog with the asthma stamped out on the stage. I know a certain very normal individual who likes a good show, but to whom enough is ENOUGH and who habitually carries along cotton—like the couriers hand you on transcontinental TAT planes—to put in her ears in case one of these red hot mammals should happen to be on the bill. Otherwise, she might have to sit through that strutting, bellowing act in order to see the rest of the show. But I haven't needed to use the cotton stoppers for some time now, I observe!

YET, even though "wild mammals" have apparently gone out of date on the stage, I sometimes think they have blossomed in the home with amazing rapidity and redundancy! Fourteen-year-old Alice with the big blue eyes, wears her chic sport hat pulled down on one side of her head, while curls dangle to her shoulders, and she eyes the world with a sophistication which speaks volumes for the POTENTIAL wildness she has bottled up within that tight little one-piece dress! She merely doesn't exhibit it on the stage, hence you seldom see it. But for controlled wildness, sheer dare-devilry, and sophisticated willfulness not even Eva Tanguay and her "I-don't-care" was ever the modern youngster's equal. The 1929 flapper gives the impression that the only reason she isn't "being wild" this VERY MINUTE is merely because she is too utterly BORED with her present surroundings to EXERT herself!

Sometimes I think that "wild mammals" aren't going out of date at all. They are growing WILDER and gazing over their wildness with a suave sophistication which is about as comforting to have around as a bundle of dynamite tied with pink ribbon. And yet, the world certainly is getting BORED with the "red-hot mammals" idea. There is something awfully futile about it—like a red windmill fluttering and gratifying and making a lot of noise alongside a smooth-running slick-looking dynamo in a modern power plant. One might almost say that "wild mammals" are positively ludicrous—and only slightly insane 1929 Don Juans could fall in love with one of them! And yet—

THE TINYMITES

STORY & ILL COCHRAN—PICTURES & KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Weeones' lives had all been saved. Once on the ground the whole bunch raved. "Oh, thank you, friendly Tinymites, for all that you have done. When we were way up in that tree we were as scared as we could be. The thought of falling to the earth was far from any fun."

"The wooden shoe that sailed around and finally brought us to the ground was really very marvelous. It knew just what to do. When we had all crawled in the thing, it flew right down as if on wings. Now we just want you all to know that we are thanking you."

The Tines smiled and Society cried. "Oh, that's all right. When you were spied we knew we had to rescue you, so that's just what was done. We felt we'd all fall down kerplunk if we climbed up that big tree stump, and so we went the shoe up. Watching it was heaps of fun."

A Weeone then broke in and said, "I think it's time that we are fed. You Tines wait right here and we will go and get some eats. I think I know where we can find some food that's of the finest kind. If we succeed I'm sure you all will have the treat of treats."

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example: to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

PINE TO TREE—A PINE TREE

is the hazard on this hole. If you can drive past it, a par seven will prove easy.

CHAPTER XLIII

"Bob will believe me!" Helen declared her faith in her lover's trust without a moment's hesitation.

Surprisingly Brent nodded his head in agreement. "Won't you sit down now?" he said. "I've something more to say to you." He glanced at his watch. "Or perhaps you'd better send your friend Shalimar off to the station before we go on with this."

Helen sank into a chair. "She's in the breakfast room," she said weakly. "Tell her I'd like her to take a later train; I can't see her off now."

Brent left to do her bidding, but was quickly back. He noted, as soon as he entered the room, a change in

Helen. Given a few moments to think she had decided he was lying to her, tricking her.

How simple it was, of course. She felt like laughing only somehow there was, strangely, inexplicably, an odor of truth about it all. She fought against it.

"I hated to tell you this," Brent began, deceived by her manner into thinking she was not going to take it so hard after all.

Helen threw back her head and held her eyes fastened levelly on his.

"Don't believe a word you have said," she stated emphatically.

"You don't?" Brent came close, grasped her wrists with cruel strength, forced her down into the chair and towered over her in a menacing attitude.

"You don't?" he repeated. "Then listen to me. I can prove that you are Helen Page and not Cunningham's granddaughter. That will be easy."

Helen still defied him. "But you cannot prove what is not true," she cried. "You cannot prove that I had anything to do with your fraud."

"It will not be necessary to prove it," Brent retorted. "If you persist in marrying young Ennis I shall make your story front page newspaper stuff inside of an hour. What then? You aren't Helen Nellin. Don't forget that. You'll be toppled from your high and mighty seat to the gutter—possibly you'll have a chance to learn what women's prisons were built for."

"But you, you," Helen stammered. "You would go to prison too?"

"Don't be a fool," Brent snapped at her. "I'll be safe, out of it. You will be left to stand the gaff alone. Your exposure will come through information that I shall supply indirectly to the authorities. I'll give the whole thing to the newspapers at the same time. Let your boy friend stand by you then. Suppose you went free—there'd always be a doubt in the public mind about your innocence. What would that mean to you?"

Helen gave at once that it would be irreparable injury to his career, but only the deepening pain in her eyes answered Brent. It was enough.

"Do for him, wouldn't it? Even if he believed you, and there's a good chance that he won't."

Helen had one lucid thought. "He'll believe," she said. "I wouldn't be so sure. He'll know that I haven't dared to think of marrying him if this were true and you held me in your power."

Brent regarded her admiringly. "Rather clever," he praised. "But not weighty enough. He's apt to imagine you thought you could handle me."

"Oh, you are finished!" Brent determined my dear, that no upstart like Ennis is going to spoil my plans now."

"Then you think I will consent to go on with this deception. This imposture?" Helen cried, amazed that he should know her so little he could believe such a thing possible.

"For the sake of millions, and your liberty, yes," Brent admitted. "It's unthinkable!" Helen stormed. "You will have to prove what you have said—that I am not Helen Cunningham's daughter—and if it is true I shall renounce the fortune myself!"

"Oh, you will?" Brent sneered. "Well, my noble young lady, do that trifling thing and you'll have plenty of time to repent prove that I—"

"Are you really so dense that you fail to see your position itself will prove it for me?" Brent cut in. "Confession on my part will throw the burden of defense on you, and what will you fight with? You haven't a penny of your own. And you will need money, and friends. Public opinion, public sympathy, will be against you from the start—taking in a dying old man—giving him Judas kisses—lying to him, just waiting for him to—"

"Oh, no, no," Helen waived. "A pretty picture, no?" Brent pressed on. "Daughter of once famous crook comes into her own as queen of impostors. Blindly infatuated young law student remains loyal, turning his back upon his career for the sake of a bewitching face. Not so bad, eh? I'll make it dramatic enough, don't worry!"

Helen bowed her face in her hands.

"Well, you know that Mr. Cunningham could not find her. And if he could not, how can you? No, it's hopeless. Helen, she's probably dead, and if she isn't she's not likely to turn up. There is no reason but a mad infatuation for an obscure fortune seeker why you should wreck your life and make it a hell forever."

Helen jumped to her feet. "Oh please go," she cried; "and let me alone."

"In a moment," Brent said; "but first there is one thing more."

hands and Brent observed her shaking young body without pity.

"On the other hand," he said at last, "you can have everything. And love is not a lasting thing. Helen. Don't be hoodwinked by that notion. It's been exploded too many times. Astonishing that anyone continues to believe in it. You will forget Ennis, even if it takes time. But you never could forget—the world wouldn't let you—that you had ruined his life, robbed him of the chance to look every man in the face—that seems to be the absurd ambition of any number of brainless idiots," he added dryly.

"I don't have to marry him," Helen gulped. "I can give the money back to Mr. Cunningham's lawyer and go away somewhere."

"Yes, if the police will let you," Brent agreed.

"You will tell whether I marry Bob or not? You wouldn't let me restore the money and—"

"Certainly not," Brent returned firmly. "You will either marry me or face exposure. And I warn you, Helen, I won't stand for any nonsense. You'll come through all the way or you'll take the rap—underworld jargon," he smiled with mock apology. "It means plenty. You've let a shatterer of your dear, you know nothing whatsoever of the hell that awaits you if you let your self in for a stretch up the river. Better give it a lot of thought before you decide."

"There isn't anything to decide," Helen said brokenly. "I cannot marry you."

For a moment Brent said nothing. Then: "You may feel differently about it when you've had time to think it over. In the meantime you might go into social service and find out at first hand what happens to jailbirds. And—if you can arrange it—go take a look at the poor devils in prison. Don't settle your fate blindly, without knowing what you're doing. You'll never be able to do it. You'd be in the morgue in no time at all after they let you go with your prison pallor and your prison-marked soul."

Helen shrank down into her chair. The back of her hand flew to her mouth to stifle a scream.

"Life with me would be preferable to that," Brent continued. "As your husband I should be far more interested in your fortune than in you. Helen, I am not, fortunately, in love with you."

"You mean," Helen looked at him hopefully, "that you wouldn't want to live with me?"

Brent shrugged. Having gained a point he was willing to concede one, as promises meant nothing to him. Helen's question signified that her horror-filled mind, giving him his first tangible advantage.

Her next question was less pleasing. "Why?" she asked, "couldn't I give you half the money if, if you can prove that I am not Helen Nellin, and I decide to keep the money?"

"What a bright idea!" Brent exclaimed sarcastically. "Don't you know that the money isn't under your control, and that it would divide upon suspicion about both of us if you gave away any large amount of it?"

He did not add that it was his intention to gain possession of her entire fortune in time.

The ray of hope, if she'd really entertained it, faded out of Helen's mind. Her native honesty conquered it.

"I can't do it," she sobbed. "Snap out of it," Brent commanded harshly. "I'm not an ogre. I'll keep out of your way. It is merely a matter of convenience."

Helen wiped her eyes. "But if I'm not Helen Nellin I can't keep the money," she declared.

"Why not? Even when you consider it on the basis of fairness, you have a right to it. The right of possession. Different perhaps—even I will admit it—if there were heirs—a real Helen Nellin—Evangelina, rather. You see, you never had her name. Helen is your only given name and not Evangelina Helen as you supposed."

"Evangelina," Helen repeated after him. "I can't believe you yet, Leonard, but if there is a real Evangelina Nellin I'm going to find her."

"Don't get excited," Brent advised. "I've attended to that. I've had her searched for practically all over the face of the globe."

"Do you expect me to believe that?" Helen blazed at him. "Well, you know that Mr. Cunningham could not find her. And if he could not, how can you? No, it's hopeless. Helen, she's probably dead, and if she isn't she's not likely to turn up. There is no reason but a mad infatuation for an obscure fortune seeker why you should wreck your life and make it a hell forever."

Helen jumped to her feet. "Oh please go," she cried; "and let me alone."

POT CHURCH IN "BLUE RIBBON" CLASS IS PLEA

It is necessary, but it is not supreme.

"Even the life of the spirit is law-bound. Herein we find the dependability of grace. God loves us, but His love is expressed through law. Everywhere advance demands understanding as much as desire. Thinking is hard, but His love does not indulge it if it is to go forward."

"Second, the Blue Ribbon church loves according to the laws of love. Love is set in the affections. It is the most compelling thing in the human world. What one loves he will die for. Love sets life's objectives. When the kingdom comes, Christianity will not have to be confined to the realm of motive. It will be everywhere in fact."

"Alabaster cities result when pure-minded men and women elect clean-minded, white-souled officials, and all co-operate in the intelligent understanding of the civic problem. Eternal vigilance and creative genius must ever be the price paid for the subordination of the lesser interest to the common good."

"It is not enough to be negative; we must be positive. To be against some things is wholly legitimate. There are lots of things we need must be against. But may I suggest that if we were for something and had our position clearly defined, it is more than likely that such a positive program would keep the forces of evil on the defensive. To be for God challenges us to find the laws of the kingdom and to make them understandable to and obeyed in every nation, in every generation and in every race on the globe."

"Third, the Blue Ribbon church is the church with a program and a will to stay put until it is a reality."

"If personality can be thought of as having distinct categories, then the will must be the enforcement officer of the reason and the emotions."

"When the nineteenth century, by its manifold discoveries and inventions, crushed the world into a neighborhood, the great problem became the understanding of how man's unfulfilled God makes or breaks him; so with the church. The program never can succeed with a provincial outlook. If man is one of the feet in an ellipse where God is the other, then he can function adequately only when he is world-minded."

"This is the genius of the church that has value to our day or to any day—behold the motto, 'Come and see.' 'Come to the field, the workshop, the factory, the office, the bank, the studio, the hospital, the home, the typhus camp; come to Me in street, to Gethsemane, Golgotha; come wherever the call of Christ leads the church in its endeavor."

"This is a test—the only worthwhile standard of comparison. A man's conception of God makes or breaks him; so with the church. The church that follows the Christ of God is busy wherever there is need. Come and see it operate. Better still—get into and help her put across her world-wide service until He comes to reign whose right it is to reign."

The Plymouth car crashed into the side of the sedan, smashing both cars. Father Kilduff was the only person injured in the accident. He was removed to Huntington Beach and treated by Dr. Bert W. Hardy.

Mrs. Russell H. Johnson, of 805 North Broadway, Santa Ana, received minor injuries about the arms and legs when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband collided with another car on the Garden Grove road, last night, according to a report made at the sheriff's office by Johnson. Both cars were badly damaged.

Al Yeargan, 16, of Costa Mesa, received injuries about the head and shoulders at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving collided with a machine driven by Daniel Jerry, of Santa Ana, route No. 5, according to an accident report filed by Jerry at the office of the state traffic department. Yeargan was taken to a physician in Newport Beach. His injuries are not believed to be serious.

Federal arrangements will be completed after the inquest, it was said.

J. F. Edwards, of Westminster, reported to the sheriff's office last night that he was the man who took Updike to the hospital. He found him in an automobile at the side of the road.

Updike is survived by two sisters here, Mrs. Nellie Foreman, of 203 North Garvey street, and Mrs. Alice Martin, of 922 West Pine street. A brother, John Updike, lives in Placentia and another sister, Mrs. Gertrude Stewart, lives in Coolie, Wn.

With Hanson at the time of the accident was Charles F. Watkins, also of San Clemente. The two were returning from Santa Ana and the car failed to make a turn in the road.

Passersby whose names were not learned, took Hanson and Watkins to the hospital. Watkins suffered bruises but was not seriously injured. He returned to his home.

Few frocks will be accompanied this fall by jackets or coats. The ensemble of the moment is the jacket frock, of tweed, topped by a smart great coat of the same tweed.

team won but it was so much better than it should have been by two or three touchdowns instead of one.

Minnesota likewise was a hot choice over Northwestern. The result? One of the classics of the year. Northwestern led at 7 to 6 in the second period, trailed at 9 to 7 in the third, then led again at 14 to 9. Then the Gophers ran up 17 points in the final quarter.

The Army-Harvard tie at 20 to 20 was another heartbreaker. Harvard leading 13 to 0 at half time, then trailing behind 20 to 13 on Cagley's inspired running and finally tying the score with a long pass in the last minute of play.

Yale also had to come from behind to beat Brown, conqueror of Princeton, so did the Navy to beat Duke, a distinct surprise. Likewise Illinois to the Iowa, the short-end, and Georgia to beat North Carolina, the Crackers scoring twice in the last period.

Another was Cornell's 13 to 7 victory over Princeton, the winning touchdown coming on a pass play in the second period.

Carnegie Tech tied As for the Carnegie Tech. It earned no more than its scoreless tie with W. and J., in spite of Kardec's disallowed touchdown in the second period.

Ohio State earned everything it got from Michigan, which was a 7 to 0 victory and one could say no less for Pittsburgh against Nebraska. The Huskers twice were downed on the 5-yard line early in the game.

Florida was "down" all the way to Georgia Tech while Tennessee got the only touchdown of the Alabama game by marching 45 yards in the second period. Purdue gave further evidence of its power against De Pauw and Indiana again displayed a lack of it in losing to Colgate. Something of a surprise was occasioned when Chicago scored only 10 points on Ripon and the Argies beat Kansas. There was none in connection with Stanford's easy win from Oregon State and U. S. C.'s gallop with Occidental.

In fact, the day was so normal it was extraordinary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—28 cars of valencias and 5 cars of lemons sold. Market very dull on valencias. Lemons market strong and higher.

MUTT AND JEFF—A Mastoid of Ceremonies Makes Good

GREATNESS OF CHRIST IS HOPE OF CIVILIZATION

In his sermon yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland characterized our time as "A Motion Picture Age."

"The reflection that is made on our times in the answers to a questionnaire sent to New England school principals," he said, "is alarming. The question asked was 'which has the greatest influence in the forming of the character of young people today—the school, the church, or the home?' Seventy per cent of those answering scratched off all three words and wrote: the cinema."

"On a recent Sunday it is reported that more than 600,000 people paraded the boardwalks of Coney Island. In the same crowd there were more people than took part in all the crusades of the Middle Ages. That is a larger number of people than have gone out as missionaries during the twenty centuries of Christianity's life and witness. What a crowd! That is all one can say about them. They were marshalled to no purpose. They had no unity of mind. They were out to see the sight and spent most of the time eating peanuts."

"In this motion picture age, this age of business—when we talk of the biggest cities and the biggest fortunes and the biggest crowds, it is well for Christians to remember that their leader did not consider quantity, but quality; that He did not trust the content of the work to the Coney Island crowd, but to that small company of Twelve Men."

"We dare not trust the ongoing of civilization to the bubbles of bigness which spurt up on the pool of the world's life. The bubbling geysers of the Yellowstone have never been harnessed for power. The mighty Niagara lights cities and turns the wheels of industries. So we must trust ourselves to the intensity of God's power which sweeps in like the mighty ocean tide."

"The impotent man of the Gospel, who waited at the pool of Bethesda for some external commotion of the pool, was not cured by bubbling waters but by the touch of Jesus. The hope of civilization is not in the bigness of things but in the Greatness of Christ."

THOMAS A. EDISON

They are celebrating at Dearborn, near Detroit the fiftieth anniversary of the establishing of Thomas A. Edison's Menlo Park laboratory.
Henry Ford has taken the very earth from New Jersey at Menlo Park, carried it to Dearborn, and there has erected the same building with which Thomas A. Edison started fifty years ago. President Hoover is one of the many distinguished guests who will honor the great inventor. The whole nation will join in honoring this marvelous wizard of invention.

Thomas Edison was born 83 years ago this coming February in the little town of Milan, Ohio. We have often visited this little brick, humble dwelling in which the inventor first saw the light of day. The story of his life is the story of labor, punctuality and care, plus undoubted genius. He began his active business life at 12 years of age, becoming a newsboy on the Grand Trunk railway. He later learned telegraphy, and was an operator in various places in United States and Canada.

While working as an operator he invented many telegraphic appliances, including the automatic repeater, quadruplex telegraph and the printing telegraph. He invented the quadruplex and sextuplex telegraphic transmission;
the electric pen and mimeograph; the carbon telephone transmitter; the microtasmeter for detection of small changes in temperature;
the megaphone, to magnify sound; the phonograph;
the incandescent lamp and light system; the electric valve (called the "Edison effect" at first), fundamentally essential now in wireless telegraphy.

He invented a system of wireless telegraphy to and from moving railway trains; the motion pictures and alkaline storage battery. After the commencing of the World war, he designed, built and operated successfully benzol plants;
also two carbolic acid plants and other chemical plants for making myrbane aniline oil, aniline salt, and parphenylenediamine. He has received patents for more than 1,000 inventions. He has received innumerable honors and degrees.
He has been president of the Naval Consulting Board since 1915.

He recently, it will be recalled, selected a young man, after careful examination to succeed him in his work. It is a great heritage which will come to that young man. It may be possible that he will grasp the spirit of the genius of Edison. We hope that the actual mantle will fall on him in due time.

Mr. Edison is a man entirely absorbed in his work. He has been known to go for many hours without either food or sleep, when he was working on some experiment that he felt he could not leave. He has been possibly the greatest contributor of material values to the human race in the entire history of mankind.
He is in fine health, a friendly, kindly human being, having the affectionate regard of the nation. We congratulate him, and wish him many more years of life and usefulness.

HARVARD SCHOOL OF CITY PLAN-NING

Harvard University has voted to establish the first school of city planning ever opened in the United States. This is one phase of work, the study of which has been introduced rather tardily in our schools.

The haphazard manner in which highways and public buildings are constructed without relation to any particular plan, master or otherwise, is one of the lamentable things which are ob-servable in our highways and buildings. Political, local influences and real estate exploitation have developed the haphazard program. Streets with blind ends, narrow and numerous, and few that are wide, or get anywhere, or synchronize with other roads and streets of other villages or counties, are the rule rather than the exception.

For some years there has been an agitation throughout California for county planning. The Legislature passed a bill two years ago permitting county Boards of Supervisors to appoint planning commissions. Orange county has had considerable agitation and nearly every conceivable organization has passed resolutions favorable to such a program. The recent session of the Legislature made the county planning by the Board of Supervisors mandatory.

And now Harvard University sets up a department for the construction of the elements of city planning, which of course will include the planning of the larger units. It is rather remarkable that this progressive idea has been so long in being brought about. The reason for this probably is that there is no one to make profit out of it, and hence it has not been pushed by financial groups.

GLIDING

We wonder with what feeling Orville Wright read of the new record of the glider. A glider in Eastern Prussia kept his plane in the air 14 hours and 45 minutes.

When one realizes that this is done without power, other than that furnished by the air currents, it is rather a marvelous exploit. We can well imagine that the inventors of the airplane, as they recall how brief a period they were first able to keep their plane in the air, they may even almost expect that it will get somewhere as a means of locomotion. While this is impossible, yet there are many things that are being learned from the glider which are beneficial to the builders of the airplane.

THE COMMUNITY PLAYERS

The Community Players, it seems, have really gotten beyond the sticking point in their progress toward the establishing of the organization on a sound financial and successful basis. The recent production, with the fine attendance and the pleasure and profit which all received from it, are indicative of even better days to come.

It is a difficult thing to establish any new enterprise in any community. It requires devotion and sacrifice; it takes the labor of some people at times when they receive apparently no reward except the satisfaction of doing their best for something worth while. But finally if persisted in, something breaks somewhere, and support is rendered which insures its continuance.

This is almost always true in any enterprise which fills a real need in a community. There are few things in which a community can put its time more wholeheartedly, with the expectation of getting permanent satisfaction out of it, than a community players' enterprise. It belongs to the community. Its participants are of the community. It affords them an opportunity to express their talent, and there is more histrionic talent in every community than people imagine. It enables some of the finest productions to be given in the community, and keeps alive the spirit for the legitimate stage.

The comparative cheapness with which a play can be produced on the screen with the talkies attached, makes it exceedingly difficult for the legitimate stage to continue to function. There are elements, however, that are brought to bear in community plays which do not obtain for the professional, and we believe communities more and more will develop and foster the Community Players.

We are glad that Santa Ana has apparently passed beyond the hardest period in its efforts to make this a success.

Who and How Propaganda

Fresno Morning Republican

Just now, it is very much the fashion to denounce
"propaganda" without defining what propaganda is.

Propaganda is a word that is used to define something that you do not like.

If you should happen to like it, or to do it, then you would use some other word. That word would mean, in fact, the same thing as "propaganda."

Then you would be very angry if someone would call you a "propagandist."

When you urge something to be done, and use as an argument for this, that many of your fellow citizens are for it, you are indulging in propaganda.

If you should arouse all the residents on your block to protest to the city commission that the traffic rules were not being observed or that the streets should be repaired,—that would be propaganda.

When, in fact, does propaganda become objectionable "propaganda?"

When it is indirect.

When the motive of the person who carries on the agitation is not the motive of those that he stirs up.

The objection to the Shearer propaganda for national defense is that the Shearer purpose was to help the ship building corporations, while the purpose of those that he appealed to was the protection of the United States against the possible attack of foreign enemies.

It is the crooked purpose in the "propaganda" that properly arouses opposition.

The propaganda of the German government that was objected to in the World war was not the statements showing that the German government was right. It was the bringing up, at that particular time, of ideas tending to stir up enmity between Great Britain and the United States or France and the United States, or France and England.

Yet, the honest and straightforward arguments for Germany were propaganda, and as such were improperly and unnecessarily denounced.

The present fever of attack on "propaganda" at Washington is only in part sincere.

Wets, who themselves raise thousands of dollars to undermine the eighteenth amendment, bitterly attack dry "propaganda."

Drys, who raise thousands of dollars to maintain the value of the eighteenth amendment, resent the money spent by those who freely and honestly favor the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors.

There is tariff propaganda and anti-tariff propaganda. And each side seeks to slur the other side with the obloquy of being "propagandists."

Each side has a right to indulge in activity to persuade congressmen to support their side of legislation. And it is possible for each side to indulge in unfair and crooked methods.

The idea that members of Congress can, or should be, shut up so that no one shall talk to them about the votes on proposed measures is childish.

Barnum Was Right

Imperial Valley Press

Those of us who have to watch carefully during the week in order to make the weekly pay check go around and perhaps have a little left over against a rainy day, cannot be blamed for wondering how one reputed to be a "wealthy oil operator," could fall for the fantastic hokum of the cult leaders just now occupying a prominent place on the front pages of Los Angeles papers.

The man whose complaint caused an investigation of the weird cult, claims he was molested of some 40,000 by the women leaders of the cult who made all sorts of outlandish promises to him. Part of his money went for 600 chickens and an automobile truck, which one of the cult says the Angel Gabriel demanded as "sacrifices." Gabriel must be getting highly modernized if he is interested in chickens and auto trucks.

The cultists also promised their victim that if he would furnish equipment for a printing plant, they would produce a book, the contents of which would be devoted to explaining the whereabouts of much buried treasure, in which he would share.

All their victim seems to have obtained out of his venture was an odd-sounding title in the cult —"Hereafter and Now," whatever that means—and the experience of losing $40,000 quicker than if he had decided to bore an oil well on the top of the Tehachapi.

The victim of the cult must have had some brains and ability to acquire at least $40,000. What became of them is puzzling to say the least. But then having such a cute title in such a high sounding organization as the Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleven, is quite enough to turn any man's head. The victim didn't roll eleven, however. He got hit by "snake eyes," or the good old "box cars," as the boys who roll the bones term it.

The late P. T. Barnum is credited with having made a scurrilous but true remark about the public liking to be fooled. The cult's victim seems to be excellent proof of the saying.

RESIGNATION

Today, reposing in my bed
Afar from worldly strife,
I read what Dr. Hibben said
About success in life.
And I confess that in my heart
I felt a grateful glow
To learn that loafing is an art
That every man should know.

This statement had an honest ring
Which thrilled me through and through For loafing is at least one thing That I know how to do.
"Here," I observed, "is good hard sense
Worth writing on the wall,
Perhaps these college presidents Know something after all."

But my excitement and surprise
Did not endure for long,
A further statement met my eyes
To show me I was wrong.
The doctor, to my deep distress,
Implied that too much ease
And loafing, carried to excess
Is simply a disease.

It may well be that he is right;
Perhaps it suits one's powers
When he does nothing, day and night
But waste the golden hours.
But though my malady distills
A poison in the brain,
We all of us must have our ills,
So why should I complain?

Fifty Years Ago Today

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Fifty years ago Thomas A. Edison invented the incandescent light. Today the nation is celebrating.
Orators in ten thousand schools are trying in vain to add to the fame of the inventor—trying in vain to exaggerate the blessings of his invention—trying in vain to explain to children, born in this age of electricity, what life was like without it.

What has happened to industry in the last half century is beyond their imagination. Thanks to Edison and the researches of men inspired by him, an unknown something now flows, in some unknown way, precisely where man wants it to flow. And behold, age-old burdens are lifted from the backs of those who labor and are heavy laden.

At this moment a single workman, sitting in a clean, quiet room before an instrument board, reaches out his arm, turns a few small switches, and makes Niagara Falls illuminate a hundred cities and run the wheels of a thousand factories.

The average American workman today has, in effect, twenty slaves working for him incessantly.

A large measure of freedom from human slavery, achieved by enslaving the forces of nature. That is what we are really celebrating today.

Rightly we rejoice.

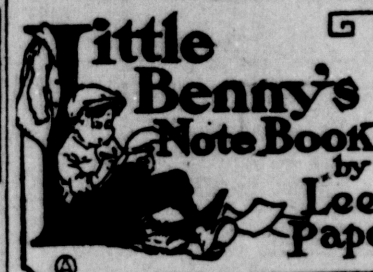

Rightly we honor the inventor of the incandescent light.

But we can honor him with something better than commemorative exercises.

A thousand Niagara Falls, or the equivalent in power, are still running to waste. A thousand potential power stations lie hidden in the bowels of the earth. A hundred thousand willing workers have no work to do. While a million farmers and their wives and children have not yet achieved the luxury of a single incandescent light.

And today is the fiftieth anniversary of the great invention.

Pap was smoking and thinking, and ma sed, Willyum, I had the thrill of my life this afternoon.
How much did you find? pap sed, and ma sed, I didn't find anything, silly. I saw Ronell Ronnell face to face, I was as close to him as I am to you at this moment.
Imagine looking into the own personal eyes of the greatest actor in the movies, she sed.

Well that's odd. I had a thrill worth 2 of that yesterday morning.
I forgot to tell you, pap sed, I actually had a conversation with the one and only Nockout Slattery, he sed.

Who in the world is that? ma sed, and pap sed, who could it be but the champion welterweight of the world?

What, a prize fighter? ma sed.
And how, pap sed. He knocked out Kid Jackson in 2 rounds last Wednesday, he sed, and ma sed, I don't care if he knocked him out in 2 seconds, the idea of comparing a vulgar fighter with Ronell Ron-nell. I was just lucky enough to be passing the New Mawoleum when he came out after his personal appearance there this afternoon and my dear, the way he wears his clothes, she sed.

How do you mean, inside out or something? pap sed, and ma sed.
Don't be ridiculous, he looked like a fashion plate in human form, there wasn't a wrinkle out of place.

Did he bump into you? pap sed.
Certainly not, why should he, he's the most graceful man on the screen, such a question, ma sed, and pap sed, well, there's where I have you because Nockout Slattery bumped into me with one of his famous shoulders, and that's what led to the conversation that I alluded to. I beg your pardon, he sed to me, and you have no idea how clearly he speaks, considering that he talks out of one side of his mouth, and I sed to him, That's all right. I sed, don't mention it. I sed, So he didn't mention it. I sed, imagine Nockout Slattery taking a perfect stranger's advice like that, pap sed.

O hush up, ma sed.
With pop did, getting behind the sporting page and staying there.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

OCT. 21, 1915

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lofland and their 13-year-old daughter, Elma, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury, when the automobile in which they were riding was hit by an electric car.

Secretary J. C. Metzgar of the chamber of commerce began to worry because he needed automobiles for 150 people who will arrive here on the Santa Fe's Farmer special for a trip around the county.

The board of supervisors appropriated $2000 for protective work on the Santa Ana river banks above the bridge on the Olive-Anaheim road.

B. A. Crawford announced the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Tustin Hills Citrus association, which was to be held at the association packing house near Tustin.

A number of the Fraternal Brotherhood motored to Olanda to visit the T. F. B. lodge at that place.

Thoughts On Modern Life

SUNLIGHT AND SIN

In a provincial newspaper that carries items from its files of ten and twenty-five and fifty years ago, I find this item under the heading "Fifty Years Ago Today:"

"Madison women in attendance at the fourth annual women's congress include the following...
At the congress, women discussed the tendency to bring up children to lead a life of frivolity and sin, particularly through the growing fad of allowing them to appear with their arms unclad."

The egotism of any era will hardly bear scrutiny.

Belief in witches and confidence in magic cures seem fatistical and far away to the modern of 1929, but this reprinting of an item of 1879 indicates the thin wall that separates the age of science from the age of superstition.

When we say sin, we mean bad.
When we say virtue, we mean good.

Thanks to scientific research, we now know that sunlight falling on the flesh of babies, of men and of women is good, and that anything that denies sunlight to the skins of men and women and children is bad—in short, is sin.
This is an age of science, but it will not be a scientific age until we have allowed verified knowledge to revise our notions of sin.

For much of the sin of mankind, we appeal to conscience when we should appeal to chemistry.

We now know that the nervous child is not suffering from original sin, but probably from hyper-acidity which can be relieved not by the laying on of hands of priest or pastor, but by the administration of alkalis.

We now know that the man who cowers in fear or cries out in rage is not inhabited by devils, but probably suffering from an excessive secretion of adrenalin in the blood, which can be relieved, not by prayer, but by the power of some antidote to these excessive secretions.

To live rationally is to be righteous.

Sin is not something that offends God, but something that hurts life.

The God of the modern man is not a jealous desk-sergeant watching for infractions of petty rules he has laid down; he is an understanding father who is pained only when he sees his handiwork being despoiled by the ignorance or perversity of his children who do not know enough to live rationally.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CHILDREN AND COLOR

Color has come into its own.
In some cases, more than its own.
It is a mistake to think that all colors will make all children happy. Color has a strong influence on the nervous system and as each one of us differs in our nervous power and in our nervous reactions, each of us has a color preference. It would be wise to think about that when dressing children, when selecting toys, when decorating their rooms.

We had a little boy in our school once whose mother was very fond of cardinal red. She liked to wear it, to have touches of it about the house and above all she rejoiced to clothe her small son in that royal hue. The day that he came to school clothed in scarlet the teachers knew they were in for a bad time. By and by we decided to cover the proud ruler with a linen smock of cool tones and everybody was happier.

The color so stimulated the little boy that it was impossible for him to be quiet in mind or body for any length of time. He quiv-ered and twitched, he hopped and skipped, he talked and talked and talked until nobody in the room with him could gather wit enough to do the smallest bit of work.

Yet there was another child who needed a touch of scarlet to keep him happy. Just a touch of it in his work gladdened his whole day. Another child seemed to do better if she could have some yellow in her surroundings.
Other children needed gray, mauve, violet.

All children need color but not all colors fit all children. In selecting colors try to consult the children. Usually the colors in scale with the color of their eyes and hair seem to serve harmoniously but not always. A blue-eyed child will sometimes beg for scarlet and a black haired child surely cannot wear black.

Black seems not to be good for children. If the teacher wears a black dress they seem to be depressed and brighten up noticeably when she lays it aside for a brighter one.

Those who do not have to deal with a group of children but it will be evident enough to those who have had experience along this line. Color preferences, color needs of children ought to be studied. They have a very distinct value in child training.

Time To Smile

YES!

"Would you say 'Yes' if I asked you to marry me?" he asked cautiously.
"If I should say: 'Yes,' she replied, with equal caution, "would you ask me?"—Tit-Bits.

FOND MEMORIES

GOVERNOR OF PRISON: You will be released tomorrow—have you any special requests to make?
CONVICT: Can I have a photograph taken—the others in my cell would like a group taken as a souvenir before I leave.—Nabelspalter, Zurich.

CONSEQUENTLY—

"I have less dread of influenza than of its consequences."
"Yes. I haven't paid my last doctor's bill either."—Mostique, Charlerol.

BOASTFUL

RETIRED RICH BUTCHER (showing his library to highbrow friend): See all them books bound in calfskin?
FRIEND: Yes.
RETIRED BUTCHER: Well, I killed all them calves myself.—Passing show.

RIPE WITH AGE

A small restaurant was kept by a man who prided himself on his cooking. He was amazed to hear a young salesman criticize a pie one day.

"Pie, young fellow? Why, I made pies before you were born."
"Well, why sell 'em now?"—Tit-Bits.

WAY HE TOOK IT

BROWN (ready to drive from tee): I want to get a particularly good drive this time because my wife has just turned up over there.
BRUTAL FRIEND: Don't be absurd! Why, she's three hundred yards away. You couldn't possibly hit her from here.—The Humorist.
